NEW
SLANTING WINDSHIELD

ON THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN $630 F. O. B. Detroit, Freight and delivery, bumpers, spare tire, and special equipment are extra

THE slanting windshield of the Ford Victoria won so much praise that a similar windshield is now standard on the new Ford Town Sedan. It emphasizes the Ford's flowing lines, adds distinction to an already distinguished car. The glass is Triplex—shatter-proof, of course.

The de luxe interior of the new Town Sedan deserves special mention. It is richly upholstered in fine durable cloth. The body is longer than formerly. Both seats are wider, the backs are higher and thicker, the rear seat is deeper. The rear quarter windows may be lowered if desired.

LONG PLEADING BY NEW GROOM FAILS IN COURT

Detroiter Willing To Serve Jail Term But Friend Comes To Rescue

Tee Jay Turner of Detroit operated a motor vehicle without a tail light on May 23, paid $5.00 fine and $3.35 in court costs, on July 9, and entered into the bonds of matrimony, on July 13, Monday.

Tee didnt want to pay his fine when arrainged in Judge John Schulte's courtroom last week, pleading that he had planned an extensive honeymoon with his limited sheckels. The court advised the offender that he should have appeared on June 6th as sentence had been suspended until that date. Tee pleaded and pleaded, to no avail. He asked for more time to pay his fine. Finally, unwilling to settle the matter, Tee was ready to serve five days in the County Jail, the alternative sentence.

That would mean that the "best man" would be out of a job. Presently, he arrived to plead for the groom. The pleading that followed was long and terrific, in fact, court officials say, it bordered on contempt of court, but the fine was paid in a hurry, in the end.

Suspended Terms Given Violators

Two suspended sentences were handed out in Farmington mnuicipal court, Thursday, when the arrainged were found to be first-offenders. One man was fined $10.00 charged with speeding through on Grand River at 40 miles per hour.

Beatrice Ryan, of Dearborn, was stopped by police chief Lee Doyle as she rounded Grand River at Farmington road rather heurridely, and was unable to show her driver's license. Judge John J. Schulte gave her a suspended sentence.

William Sullivan, of 5725 Woodward avenue, Detroit, pleaded guilty when arrainged on a speeding charge, but he too was allowed to go, when it was shown that there was little traffic at the time.

Arthur Czarnecki of 2738 Ovaline avenue, Detroit, was sentenced to pay $10.00 or serve ten days in the County jail, and he paid his fine.

Rocky Mountains Given Their Name by Indians

In his diary while governor of York factory on Hudson bay in 1716, James Knight notes the arrival of a band of Mountain Indians with whom he had "a great deal of discourse." They told him their country was "very mountainous and of a prodigious height. . . . so they cannot see the topps without it be clear weather. . . . The sea lyes a little way to the westward of the mountains." This is the earliest reference to the Rocky mountains in the records of the Geographic board of Canada.

In 1730 Beauharnois, the French governor, transmitted to France a sketch which the Indian, Ochagach, had drawn for La Verendyre showing the Grand Portage route to western Canada from Lake Superior. This map indicates the "montagnes de Pierres Brillantes," a name which is found in translation "mountains of Bright Stones" on Jonathan Carver's map, 1778.

The mountains are referred to by their present name in Legardeur de St. Pierre's Journal of 1752. He calls them "montagnes de Roche." The name is a transiation of the Indian name, which in Cree is assinawat, in Stoney niaha and in Blackfoot mistokis. Viewed from the prairies, the Rockies present a great wall of rock.

Glorious Chapters in History of Lifeboats

Devotion and courage are inseparably associated with the saving of life at sea, and even though the oar-propelled boat has largely given place to the motor-lifeboat, the thrill of the launch and the excitement of the dash to the wreck still remain. The inhabitants of Tenby, in Wales, have witnessed many a thrilling and hazardous rescue, and they will have even greater confidence in future attempts now that their old motor lifeboat has been replaced by a new and up-to-date craft. The earliest lifeboat was designed by a Frenchman in 1765, but there is no record that it was ever put into service. The credit of having built the first practical lifeboat, in 1789, belongs to Henry Greathead. The Royal National Lifeboat institution, which provides British coastal towns with lifeboats and life-saving apparatus, was founded in 1824.—London Mail.

Bicycle Wheels

There are quite a few different factors which enter into the strength of a built-up bicycle wheel as well as the road conditions and the conditions of the tires. As far as we have been able to ascertain there have never been any definite tests made to determine this. An authority says he has known a bicycle to carry a weight of approximately 300 pounds on two wheels, but he does not know how long the bicycle could stand this weight nor whether it would have been possible over a rough, stony road surface. The condition of the tightness of the spokes, as well as the angle of the lacing and the strength of the spokes, also contributes to the serviceability and strength of the wheel.—Washington Star.

Canals of Bruges

The imaginative traveler will find new delights in the scenery of Bruges as seen from its canals. From a boat in these calm waterways new aspects of the old Belgian city can be discovered. The waters reflect their shores so beautifully that it is no exaggeration to say that on them one sees every sight twice—towers, houses, trees and cool arches of old bridges. The view from beneath the old Bridge of the Lions, built in 1627, frames the vista of nearby gables and the distant tower of St. Jacques in the soft green of trees. Swans float out in the twilight and add much to the idyllic quiet of the scene.

Defining "Gentleman"

Within the last few years the French academy has officially received the word "gentleman" into the French language and incorporated it into the famous dictionary of that institution. An interesting feature of this is the definition given, since there has always been more or less discussion as to just what constitutes a gentleman. In this dictionary he is defined as "one in whom are combined a certain elevation of character with a certain elegance of manners." This is believed by many authorities to be a most apt description.

Impeachment of Statesmen

Impeachment proceedings in England are quite similar to the same proceedings in our congress. The house of commons are the prosecutors and the house of lords are the judges. Should the accused be found guilty, judgment follows if the commons move for it, but not otherwise. The commons thus retain the power of pardon in their own hands, and this right they have in several cases expressly claimed by resolution. There is no such provision in connection with impeachment proceedings in congress.

Strange Fare

Little Billy was perusing the big animal book with interest, asking what each and every picture represented. "What's that?" was his query of an active-looking animal with horns. "That's an antelope," answered his aunt. The child looked genuinely astonished and exclaimed, "Oh, my land! I ate one once!"

Judge Schulte Fines Reckless Drivers

Pleading guilty on a charge of non-support, and of being a disorderly person, August Yatzek, of Farmington township, was placed on probation for one year by Judge John J. Schulte in Justice court, last week. He is to report the last Monday of each month to Deputy William Tamm. Continuous drinking and carousing led to his arrest.

Four cases of reckless driving, charging four or more passengers in the front seat were written up by Constable Marle Pettibone this week. In each case, a $5.00 fine was paid.

Melvin E. Cowden, 5245 24th Street, Detroit; Owen Tomey, 934 Greenwood, Detroit; Harold Rupp, South Lyons; and William Mathoszik, 3036 Harding avenue, Detroit, paid the fines.

Aaron H. Nichols, 62 North Street, Highland, was fined $10.00 for speeding on Grand River at a 38 mile an hour clip in a two-ton truck. On the same charge, Lawrence McDonald, 127 Jewett street, Howell, appeared, and was given a suspended sentence. Delivering butter, he used a light delivery truck, weighing less than a ton, and was therefore not fined.

Residents Here Enjoy The Cherry Festival

Farmington residents who returned Saturday and Sunday from the National cherry festival at Traverse City expressed satisfaction at the celebration, where Miss Maxine Weaver, formerly of Farmington "ruled" as "Cherry Queen."

Miss Weaver visited Farmington late in June after returning from a trip through the east, and she expressed the fact that her stop here was one of the most precious memories of her tour.

"HOT" BUNS OFFERED

Fresh raisin buns for breakfast are offered to Farmington residents by the Farmington Bakery. Customers may get them every morning and have them "hot" on the breakfast table. They are covered with frosting and are "delicious" according to those who have tried them.

LICENSE ISSUED

A wedding license was issued to James B. Greer, 21 years old, of Pontiac, and Margaret A. McCulley, 23 of Farmington, on July 21.
