Charles R. Talbot Buried Thursday

Aided Church
Mr. Talbot's exceptional financial ability and experience proved valuable to his fellow-residents of Farmington when turned to the task of assisting in plans for financing the erection of the present Farmington Methodist Church building a number of years ago. Mr. Talbot took an active interest in the work and besides lending his counsel and advice, was one of the largest contributors to the fund.

Mr. Talbot was born in Adrian November 21, 1878. He went with his parents, Henry C. and Jennie E. (Redmond) Talbot to Detroit in 1889 and was educated in the Detroit schools.

Mr. Talbot began his banking career in 1896 with the Detroit National bank, remaining with them 11 years when he became assistant cashier of the National Bank of Commerce in Detroit. He became assistant to the president in 1914 and in 1915 was elected a vice-president, later taking charge of that bank's office in the General Motors building, the growth and prosperity of which is largely credited to Mr. Talbot. In 1928, Mr. Talbot became president of the Peoples State bank in Pontiac, retiring in 1929 because of ill health.

Mr. Talbot had held offices in the Farmington Methodist church and the West Grand Boulevard Methodist church, serving also as trustee of Albion college and treasurer of the Methodist Children's home in Farmington.

Mr. Talbot was also very prominent in civic life, serving on the board of the Detroit Citizen's league and holding memberships in the Detroit Athletic club, Oakland Hills Country club, Meadowbrook Country club, Detroit club, Pine Lake Country club and the Forest Lake Country club.

Among the many business enterprises in which Mr. Talbot was interested were the Motor Metals company of Detroit, of which he was a director, director of the Talbot Lumber and Coal Co., director of the Trenton State bank, director of the Plymouth United Savings bank and a director of the First Mortgage Bond Company of Detroit.

Mr. Talbot is survived by the widow, Mrs. Eleanor Smith Talbot; two daughters, Eleanor Mae and Dorothea Margaret, and two brothers, Fred H. Talbot, vice-president of the Commonwealth Commercial State bank, and Cash W. Talbot, president of the Talbot Lumber and Coal Co.

With two out in the fifth R. Wolforn doubled and scored when R. Clement singled.

Destifano opened the seventh by being hit by a pitched ball. Halvey singled him to third and after C. Wolforn fled out, R. Wolforn singled, scoring Destifano. R. Clement walked and Halvey doubled, clearing the bases, but was thrown out at third trying to stretch the hit.

Largest Survey Is Started In Township

(Continued from page one.) transferring of title to the original owners has been held up. While title is held by the State, there can be no taxes assessed, which is another reason why the Township board is desirous of obtaining a hasty settlement.

The State will not participate in the cost of the survey, the cost being borne entirely by Farmington Township.

Because of the amount of work involved and chaotic conditions in regard to the State's right-of-way undertakings, the cost of the survey to the Township could not be estimated in advance. Efforts to induce the State to do the work or share the cost were unavailing.

State officials told Supervisor Coe that with widening projects going on in many sections, and each with a similar condition in regard to property titles it would be impossible for the State to take care of all localities, nor could one be handled by the State without protests from other sections. Woodward avenue frontage was stated to be in even worse condition in this respect than Grand River, and an immense amount of work will be required if each of the communities along that highway.

GIRL IDENTIFIES KIDNAPPER AS MAN NOW IN MARQUETTE

Fred Smith, Member Of Notorious Trio, Named By Miss Irwin

Positive identification of Fred Smith as one of the four men who held up four young people June 23 at McKinney and Joy Roads and assaulted and kidnaped Miss Shirley Lindquist of Detroit, was reported in a Detroit newspaper Thursday morning. Smith is: one of the trio convicted of slaying four young people near Ypsilanti, August 11.

Wilma Irwin, 20, 3746 Second Blvd., Detroit who was with Miss Lindquist at the time, made the identification. It is asserted, in Jackson prison Wednesday afternoon, that identification was corroborated by Neil Lindquist, crippled brother of the kidnaped girl, who with Ernest Fairmont, was present at the time of the kidnaping.

Following the kidnaping, Miss Lindquist was freed at Nine Mile and Gill roads. She went for help to the farmhouse of August Yatsing on nine mile road from where Deputies William Tamm and Joseph DeVriendt of Farmington were summoned.

Miss Irwin and Lindquist were unable to identify David Blackstone, negro, or Fred Oliver, other convicted Washenaw county killers, as having participated in the assault June 23.

'BEER' PROVES TO BE GINGERALE AS DRIVER CRASHES

Large Load Of Bottled Goods Momentarily Raises Hopes Of Motorists

All is not gold that glitters and all is not "beer" that sparkles. This was proven Tuesday night when officers investigating the automobile crash west of the city in which two Grand Rapids men were injured, discovered a large quantity of bottled goods in bur-lap sacks, so commonly utilized by beer runners in packing their contraband.

Passersby, seeing such a wholesale display of what appeared to be good "beer," began smacking their lips in anticipation of obtaining for themselves of ob- before officers should confiscate the cargo.

But no such fortune was in store for the thirsty ones. The "beer" was gingerale.

Surplus Oil Could Be Of Benefit To Barbers

(Continued from page one.) slashed the price of hair cuts, to 25 cents, "all hair cuts." Shaves were kept at 25 cents.

Two Agree
The situation was clouded for a few days, but two of the other shops got together and determined not to start another series of retaliating reductions, such as occurred in previous "war".

They decided to place men's hair cuts at 35 cents and let it go at that, with children's price and shaves remaining as before.

The fourth however, "went along with the reduction to 25 cents, and so two shops are now cutting men's hair for 35 cents and two are cutting 'em for twenty-five. All retain the same prices for children's trims, 25 cents, and for shaves, 25 cents.

Hint An Upset
For the present the situation remains thus. It may change, however, and shortly. The Enter- prise gleaned a hint that further upset may occur within a few days, to add complications to the situation.

It would seem that a diplomat's best chance is before the war goes too far.

He had hidden it himself eleven years before, but failed to find it until the mattress was discarded.

He who hides money loses interest and is apt to lose his principal. Deposit your dollars in this strong bank.
