Not the Same Fate for Nice Christmas Cards

A CHRISTMAS CARD leaned heavily against the door. The door was dark. The door locked. "What a day! What a day!" he groaned.

Mrs. Christmas Card sighed loudly. "You have suffered no more than I have, my dear."

"What I object to are ladies who bend back my corners, and peer at my picture, and read my lines, and then lay me down again all askew," said Mr. Christmas Card.

"That's nothing. How would you like to have a little girl jam you back in your envelope so that she tore the red lining?"

Several other cards spoke up. They all complained of bad treatment.

"And we'll all be thrown in the waste basket, anyhow," finished Mr. Christmas Card. "Ho—hum . . ."

But next morning when both Mr. and Mrs. Christmas Card were bought by the same person, and later sent to the same family, and not thrown into the waste basket but set up on the mantel, they felt very proud.

"But we are very remarkable cards," they told each other, and waited for the next person to say, "How perfectly lovely these are!"—Martha Banning Thomas.

Christmas Day Dreams of the Long, Long Ago

THE old man sat nodding by his dying fire. Outside the wind howled and rattled the windows, but within—

He smiled. Here was Tom, dear boy, blowing up the fire while his mother trimmed the Christmas tree. And then their friends came dropping in, all their friends of the dead long ago. And Alice, his baby Alice, as well as Alice again in pigskin, and Alice again, quite grown up and in love with the man who broke her heart. All of them trooped about, now fanning the fire, now hanging the walls with greenery, and all the time laughing and talking. Such talk, and such laughter!

The door opened and his landlady entered. "I've brought you a bit more wood, sir. I thought you might be cold, sitting here all alone."

"I haven't been alone. I've had a lot of company—lots of company—" "Well, now," she said, "that's nice," but once outside his door she shook her head. "Poor dear! Quite child-like."

Yet who shall say the dream is not reality, and reality a dream?—Helen Galeford.

The Cheery Logs Knew It Was Christmas Time

THE woodshed was filled with logs. They reached up to the ceiling, and there were so many that some were lying outside the woodshed.

They would be put inside when there was room made for them. They would burn well, too, as they were fine and dry, having been cut the year before.

And at Christmas time it didn't matter how many logs were burned.

At other times perhaps one was more economical with the fire, letting it die down earlier in the evening, or not putting on a log when one might have been nice for the evening ahead.

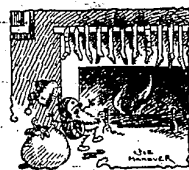

But at Christmas time nothing mattered. Every one burned as many logs as possible.

A splendid, roaring fire was kept up all the time, and if the fire did not burn brightly at once no one cared whether lots of kindling was used.

It was Christmas time and the fire must be kept very bright. The cheery logs knew that—Mary Graham Bonner.

OAKLAND MOTOR CAR COMPANY MAY OFFER NEW MODEL

All Departments Working Full Time; Some Working Overtime As Well

Pontiac, Mich., Dec. 15—Increasing employment and greater activity at the Oakland Motor Car Company plant here lend weight to reports that the company will shortly introduce a new line of cars. Although factory officials remain silent on the subject of new models, widespread confidence exists that the industry's fourth largest producer soon will announce ambitious plans for 1932.

All departments of the factory are on a full time basis, with some departments working nights as well. Not since the introduction of the present models nearly a year ago has the Pontiac factory been as busy as at present. Employment is at the highest level since last spring. Former employees are being given preference as the factory personnel is daily increased. As a result general business in the Pontiac area has shown a marked pick-up.

Reports vary as to when the new models may be expected and what new developments they will offer. It is stated, however, that I. J. Reuter, president, is carrying even further the "high value" policy which enabled the company to climb from sixth to fourth position in the industry in less than a year's time.

MORE AUTOMOBILES FOUND ANNUALLY THAN STOLEN

Lansing, Dec. 16—Law enforcement officers in Michigan yearly recover more stolen automobiles than the number stolen, records of the Department of State show. This apparent contradiction comes from the fact that the number of stolen automobiles is decreasing rapidly, and from the recovery of a number stolen during previous years.

In 1930, the number of automobiles stolen was 5,265 while 5,364 were returned to their owners. For the first 11 months of this year, 2,577 vehicles were stolen and 3,078 recovered.

The reason given for the decrease is that only in the past two years police and deputy sheriffs have come to know that from Department of State records can be quickly obtained full details of all vehicles; and have taken full advantage of the department data.

Facts About the Telephone

Toronto now averages about one and three-quarter million telephone calls every day.

The number of individual holders of Bell Telephone securities is greater than the population of any one of 13 of the 48 states.

For the first nine months of 1931, there was a net gain of more than 6,300 telephones in the District of Columbia, as compared with a gain of about 4,900 for the same period in 1930.

Between 15 and 20 per cent of the length of a telephone pole is underground, the percentage depending largely on its height. A 25-foot pole is set four and one-half to five feet in the ground.

At the North Pole—An Electric Cooker Is Santa's Favorite Gift

HERE'S a stickler: Who's the world's greatest authority on Christmas gifts? Correct—Santa! Now then, wouldn't you like to know what sort of gift this noted person gives to his friends? You've guessed it—an electric cooker. Every Eskimo within a hundred miles of the Pole owns one. Of course, it's only natural that a cooker should be Santa's choice: Saint Nick loves his dinners, and it may be that he's prejudiced. There's no denying that an electric cooker turns out fine meals. And here's one of the best things about it: It cooks a complete meal for a family of six—two vegetables, a custard, a roast, potatoes and gravy—all at the same time, yet uses little more current than a kitchen light! On his annual jaunt southward, Santa carries his Everhot on his sleigh. It keeps his food hot for hours.

Cost of operation 2c per hour
