Mankind Really Knows Little About the Seas

An outdoor spinning whirpool is an oddity added to the long list of unexplained mysteries of the sea, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. It's half in jest and half in awe that old tars refer to the bounding main as "that old devil sea." In older days the sea was believed to be peopled with strange monsters which devoured both ships and men. Even today, with all the safeguards and comforts of modern travel a ship voyage is not without its hazards. Mother Ocean constantly plays new and unexpected tricks because man's knowledge of the sea, for all his centuries of study and experience, is extremely meager.

Explorers and geographers who have been sifting for new lands to conquer may find their best field, paradoxically, in the sea. When it is realized that nearly three-quarters of the surface of the globe consists of water, it is rather remarkable how little we know of the vast surface of the solid sphere which lies under this screen of liquid. The sea is interesting in many things about the sea in its shallowness as compared with the size of the earth, and its depth as compared with the height of the land. If one were to take a globe six feet in diameter and excavate the deepest trench of the ocean thereon, it would be a bare pin scratch deep—about one-thirtieth of an inch.

Rel. of Confederacy
A Confederate flag, fashioned from red calico, a rip torn from white petticoats and Dutch blue cloth and containing eleven badly shaped stars is in the State museum at Little Rock, Ark. The flag contains only three stripes, two red and one white. Written on the white stripe was the inscription "Go and the Lord be with thee."

Fear of New Things
Probably the greatest terror among primitive people is the sheer panic of the new and the unfamiliar.

Resignation of Eger Is Of Interest Here

A number of Farmington residents, particularly members of the American Legion will be interested in the recent announcement at Lansing of resignation of Paul G. Eger, for a number of years assistant attorney-general. Mr. Eger, who will re-enter the private practice of law, has been named as legal adviser to Carl Fors, receiver of the American State Bank at Lansing. He will join one of the most prominent law firms in the central part of the State, that of Kelley, Sessions, and Warner, at Lansing. The new firm will be Kelly, Sessions, Warner and Eger.

Mr. Eger is known to people of this section especially through his Legion activities, having been active in affairs of the Sixth District, of which this section was a part until formation of the new Seventeenth District. He is also one of the leaders in Legion affairs of the State.
