RICHARDS GOT THE JOB BECAUSE HE HAD A TELEPHONE

When an application is made for work, employers are quite likely to ask for a telephone number. For they know that the easiest and quickest way to get into touch with additional help is by telephone. Your home telephone is an important asset in business and social life. It places you within instant reach of business associates and friends. And, in emergencies, such as fire or sudden sickness, it will summon help immediately. Of all the things you buy, probably none gives so much for so little as your telephone.

To the Editor: Farmington Enterprise:

"All republican forms of government either state or national, best managed when the political parties of the state or country are very evenly balanced." I learned that in college sixty-seven years ago, and today no student of political economy will publicly deny the truth of it. In Michigan, and especially in Oakland County, the long-continued violation of this self-evident truth has brought thinking men and women to a realization of the costly mistake.

The state, loaded down with a financial burden of taxation, the present generation cannot hope to see lifted, farms and homes lost not by hundreds, but by the many thousand, and Oakland County, the home of my boyhood, brought to the verge of bankruptcy, is a picture that at my great age, is one I dread to contemplate. A nearly evenly-balanced legislature and boards of supervisors as evenly balanced would have prevented such a situation as now confronts our splendid state which could almost live on its own production and resources.

Long-continued partisan government, is and has been always the opportunity of selfish politicians who see only the chance to profit, at the expense at the hands of tolling taxpayers.

When appointed to take charge of a state institution, then the special pride of the people of Michigan, Governor Edwin Winans sent me a letter of congrat-ulation and in it said: "Just remember, Mr. Wiend, every dollar uselessly expended must be earned by the hard hands of the toiler." Had his wise and humane admonition been heeded by state, city, and county officials the past quarter of a century, thousands of lost farms and homes in Michigan would be still in the hands of the rightful owners and the bread lines in cities would have been shortened 80 per cent.

Who would have thought seventy years ago next July when a score or more Farmington young boys, several of them barely seventeen years old, that provision barrels would be placed on the streets in Farmington to gather contributions of food and clothing for destitute men, women and children; brought about by reckless extravagance by state, city and county officials. Unrestrained partisan government, in the end, is sure to result in a final breakdown of American ideals.

I have lived long beyond the span of life allotted to man, and now at eighty seven, I am still hoping to live to see a return to the official integrity of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, and Lincoln that gave justice to the first free republic in the world.

W. H. WIEAND. Codwater, May 9, 1932.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. Pike Maple Avenue, May 19, at 2:30.
