Four Towns Together

Small towns have their problems, just as much as the big cities, although the difficulties are of a different kind and are not displayed on the front pages of daily newspapers. The cities meet up with sudden drastic situations, such as caring for armies of the unemployed when prosperity flies the coop. The small town has the slower, but incessant battle to maintain its entity and identity, against the attractions of the big city nearby.

There are many and various ways by which any small town can build and maintain itself, and there is one excellent method, when small towns are close together as in this area, by which they can all benefit. That is by co-operation, and a splendid instance of it is arranging of the "Four-Square Firemen's Day" for Plymouth, Wayne, Northville and Farmington, planned by some "live-wires" in this section, to be held at Northville fair grounds Friday of next week. From all advance reports, the program is going to be the best quarter's worth of entertainment that has been seen in this part of the State in a long time. In addition, everyone who attends helps his home community, because the profits, if any, are to be divided between the four towns.

We do not need to drive down to Detroit each summer to be button-holed by Detroit firemen or policemen to "buy a ticket" and help along their annual field days. We don't need to because they come out here and solicit among us. Now we have one of our own, and happily we may say, one may buy a ticket on the basis of getting one's money's worth of fun in a home-sponsored endeavor rather than for the purpose of "supporting" an outside program, however worthy the purpose.

Let us hope that despite the short time taken for preparation, the event will be so successful that it will be repeated every year.

Will It Be "Too Late" For You?

Scores and perhaps even hundreds of Farmington Township citizens are likely to lose their votes at the September primary this year. Dozens will doubtless arrive at the polls to learn that they cannot vote. There will probably be some troublesome moments for the citizens selected to sit on election boards, explaining to other citizens why the latter must lose their rights of the ballot for at least that one election.

The record of re-registration thus far, reported by Township Clerk Willard Campbell, shows that in the Township, as elsewhere in Michigan, voters are going to make a last-minute rush to re-register, and some of them are not going to make it at all. With two and a half months of the registration period gone and only one month remaining, not much more than 10 per cent of the voters have put their names on the new record-cards. Every day that goes by without a sizeable increase means a higher number to be recorded in those busy last-moment days that are certain to come.

Only a little over a hundred registered—eight or nine times that many, perhaps, to be registered, and this in spite of the fact that everywhere we hear that the great masses of the people are more deeply interested in their government than they have been at any time within the last thirty or forty years. These reports have led me to predict that the primary election in September would break all records. But with every city over 5,000 population having re-registration by compulsion, and little of it taking it place as yet, what becomes of the prophecy?

Newspapers, civic organizations, and officials, have been exerting efforts to speed up the registration, by frequent articles, by posting signs, and by written and verbal appeals. Thus far it seems, to fall on many an ear that is deaf. One can only wonder if those whose hearing is the very poorest now, will display voices that howl the loudest when, on September 13, the chairman of the election board meets them at the polls, and says, "Too late, ye cannot enter here!"

A "Small Town" Smiles

Farmington will be pardoned a gentle horse-laugh in the direction of Detroit these days. The little "ha-ha" passes right over Redford to the rest of our big-city neighbor. We exempt Redford, since that community is the cause of the chuckles.

Five or six years ago, when Detroit was desperately trying to keep ahead of Los Angeles as the Fourth City of the United States, both were utilizing the simple method of swallowing in all the surrounding territory in elephantine gulps. Redford and environs was part of the biggest gulp. Detroit got that big bite down, all right—Redford, Greenfield Township, Brightmore and what-have-you, but oh, that bite doesn't want to stay down now. And my, what indigestion it causes!

The Detroit newspapers, who used to race each other to spread abroad the newest manifestations of "Dynamic Detroit," are now engaged in an equally desperate race to see which can print first and most exhaustively the horrible details of how Dynamic Detroit has been sunk financially by fortunes thrown hither and yon for sewers, sidewalks and streets, in the "wildest" subdivisions of Greenfield Township. Not that this is entirely to be laughed at. It is, perhaps, tragic. But what makes it funny for our small-town folks is just this: as soon as the Redford annexation was put through, everyone in this part of the State was told how smart Detroit had been, how they had "got the best of the deal," and had put it over very nicely on the small-towners out in the sands of what used to be called, "Sand Hill," now Redford. One old fellow we know (a small-town man) said "Humm, wait and see. We've lived to see, but a good many Detroiters will never live to finish paying some of the debt that the small town at Lahser Road graciously turned over to them with the annexation

"Buddy"

There is a golden tie that binds,
The tie of fellowship.
It's found in every Buddy's hand,
You sense it in his grip.

The shot and shell which took away
The others who are gone,
Will closer bind the rest of us
As we all travel on.

True friendship is a precious thing
To treasure in your heart.
This truth each Buddy learned when he
From Buddy had to part.

When taps for anyone is blown
And three short volleys fired,
The others then will close their ranks
And carry on inspired.

I want no pompous cavalcade,
When death has set me free,
Just tramping feet and muffled drums
Three volleys, taps for me.

WEST FARMINGTON

Mrs. Ervin Knapp

40-F4

Mrs. Fred Reinas passed away Saturday after a short illness at the age of 67. Funeral services were held at her home with Rev. Niedermeyer officiating. Mrs. Reinas had lived in West Farmington the greater part of her life.

Mrs. William Kurtz spent Sunday afternoon with her sister Mrs. Luther Woodward of Plymouth. Mrs. Elva Tolman spent a few days this week with her daughter Mrs. Starr Graham.

Miss Marquita Wilcox is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox.

Several from West Farmington attended the Walled Lake Baptist Sunday School picnic at State Park in Highland. Mr. and Mrs. Starr Graham and family motored to Hartland Sunday to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Geigler.

The annual Graham reunion will be held at the home of Starr Graham on 13-Mile Road Sunday, July 31.

Mrs. James E. Moore, Mrs. Jasper Moore, and Miss Mary Moore of Romulus, and Mr. Wendell Green of Walled Lake, have just returned from an extended trip through Canada and the Eastern States covering approximately 3,000 miles. Some of the points of interest which they visited were Niagara Falls, Watkins Glen, the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec, Boston, Berkshire Hills, the Catskill mountains, West Point, New York City, Philadelphia, Annapolis Naval Academy, and Washington D. C.

We read that some of these Hollywood stars are changing the color of their hair to become "platinum" blondes. We don't want any of that kind. The golden blondes were expensive enough.
