Thre. HANDY HEATING HELPERS

for industrial processes using a small amount of heat

If you are a small manufacturer, or a big manufacturer with a process using small quantities of heat, you will be interested in these unique electric heating units. By means of these units, you can often do a small heating job cheaper than any other method.

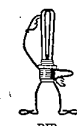

SPOT

Take, for example, SPOT—the cartridge-type electric heating unit. This small unit provides a spot of clean, safe, odorless, precisely controlled heat just where it is needed in a process or in a machine. STRIP, the electric strip heater, provides strips of heat for use in scores of hard-to-heat locations, in cabinets, outlying buildings, crane cabs, valve houses. DIP, the electric liquid heating unit, can be placed in tanks or kettles or in compartments of machines, for the heating of oil, glue, wax, water or other liquids.

STRIP

These units are surprisingly low-priced. A cartridge unit like SPOT sells for only $2. A unit like STRIP sells for $15.50. And a simple liquid heating unit of the DIP type is available for $10. In addition there are many other kinds, among which you can choose one exactly suited to your heating needs.

DIP

Detroit Edison engineers will gladly study any heating problem you may have—especially your smaller jobs—and give you their recommendations. We do not sell or rent this equipment, and there is no obligation. Simply call the nearest Detroit Edison office.
