BIBLICAL DRAMA IS TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY NIGHT

"St. Claudia" Will Be Presented At Farmington M. E. Church By California Players

The Farmington Churches are sponsoring a performance of Marshall N. Gould's Biblical drama, "St. Claudia," which will be presented in the Methodist church, Saturday evening, October 22, at 8 p. m. by the Olmsted Platform Players of Los Angeles, California. "St. Claudia" was awarded first prize in 1924 by the Drama League of America.

It is written in sonorous blank verse and is similar to Shakespeare's masterpiece except that it is written around the sacred text of Matthew 27th:15-26 and is historically and biblically correct.

The players are professional actors with years of experience in their profession, who are devoting their talents and ability in giving this deeply devotional and evangelistic sermon in drama form.

"St. Claudia" is presented in four scenes. It deals with the last week in the life of our Lord. His trial before Pilate, the Crucifixion and resurrection.

The Olmsted Players have a beautiful scenic production for "St. Claudia" and the special lighting effects assist in the spiritual atmosphere created.

Ministers of all denominations are unanimous in the praise of the spiritual message delivered in the rendition of "St. Claudia" by the Olmsted Players, and the company is proud of the scores of personal letters in various cities where "St. Claudia" has been presented.

FARMINGTON HIGH IS DEFEATED BY TRENTON, 6 TO 0

Team Will Play Madison High Of Royal Oak On Friday; Bill Hamilton Out

Putting up a staunch defense against a faster, heavier, and more experienced team, Farmington High School's eleven lost to Trenton Friday, 6 to 0. The game was played at Trenton.

Farmington was playing without the services of Captain Bill Hamilton, whose injured arm put him out of the game except for one kickoff. Without his aid on offense, the team was unable to put together a consistent attack.

The defensive work of Lee, Lancaster and Spaller stood out above the generally high average of the team. Lee was in fact on many of the Trenton plays from his end position, and Lancaster stopped most of those that got through.

Spaller, punting coolly when the team was backed up against its own goal line, staved off danger several times. Lancaster, in the last quarter, caught two or three long passes and nearly got away for a touchdown.

One of the fast Trenton backs broke away for a 30-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, and in the fourth quarter Jones, attempting to punt from behind the goal line after Spaller had been injured, fumbled a low pass from center and was downed for a safety.

Friday Farmington plays Madison High of Royal Oak at Royal Oak. Hamilton and Spaller will be unable to play in this game.

A free will offering will be taken to defray expenses.

Plan Discussion For M. E. Cradle Roll Dept.

The Cradle Roll Department of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School has planned a series of discussions of interest to the mothers of the Cradle Roll Department.

These will include discussions on music for children, pictures for children, teaching the child prayer, and many other helpful suggestions.

The first meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Emory Hutton, October 28 at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Hazel Leonard of Detroit, who is secretary for the Federal Council of Churches and a well known religious educational worker, will tell what Cradle Roll Departments have done and can do.

Mothers are urged to attend.

Traffic Officer Fired By Southfield Board

times to rap with his new gavel and impress on the crowd that noisy laughter would not be tolerated.

First the attorney forced Kent to admit he could not distinguish between a misdemeanor and a felony, and followed by making Kent confess he did not know the traffic laws.

Dr. Orr brought out a point Kent had not mentioned previously, that the constable suspected at the time that Spaller was driving a stolen car.

Finishing his examination of Kent, Orr pointed out that no mention had been made of the county in which the violation had taken place. He asked for a dismissal of the case on the ground that the jurisdiction of Justice Roberts in a Southfield case had not been established. Orr offered to put the defendant on the stand, although Spaller could not be forced to testify.

"Opposed To Guilty"

The justice interjected a statement that "this court does not approve of guilty" before calling Spaller. "I am doing this for the boy's sake," he said. "I want to clear him."

Spaller readily admitted crossing Telegraph Road without stopping. He then asserted Kent had told him he had no reason to believe Spaller was not driving a stolen car, and that he understood the constable was going to take him to Pontiac. He was afraid he would be taken to jail, so he tried to get away.

One of the shots Kent fired hit the roof in front of his car, Spaller claimed.

After they arrived at the Mill Creek farm, Kent said he had not fired, and called Spaller a liar when he said he had shot, the defendant testified.

After Spaller had finished his testimony, Justice Roberts dismissed the case.

"I hope and pray that in the future unless they have a real honest-to-God reason they will never use a gun around here again. It is a dirty, rotten shame."

In the opinion of this court, I am sorry, son," the justice finished. Constable Kent brought 38 traffic cases into Justice Roberts' court last month, the justice says his records show.

Following the trial a "love feast" atmosphere prevailed, with Orr sending his client over immediately to shake hands with Kent. The latter telling the boy that he was sorry, but that he couldn't know all the boys in neighboring communities and recognize them when they came along. But when photographers came forth, Spaller's father apparently refused to let him pose with Kent and Justice Roberts, so the boy and the judge did it together.

Meanwhile, the crowd of men and women, who had arisen from their seats, were called back by justice to hear a few remarks from Orr. Justice Roberts said that Orr, "then a young lawyer," had aided in the efforts toward building the hall in which the trial took place. He presented Orr as "the next prosecuting attorney, a fair man."

Orr said that he did not wish to take advantage of the situation to make a political speech, but that he desired to emphasize his opposition to careless use of guns, and to assure the people of his desire to be of service at all times.

Then there was more handshaking, but one incident of a sinister kind. Miller to whose farm the boy had driven, came up to Kent and took his hand but started in a series of insults beginning with a statement reflecting on the officer's veracity, and continuing with such extreme remarks that Justice Roberts leaned over and cautioned Miller to remember he was in a court-room. Kent received all Miller's uncomplimentary remarks with a smile.

Traffic powers were granted to Kent and the other Southfield Township Constables, William Dreisner, in November, 1931, to last until April, 1932. Dreisner's traffic powers were rescinded two weeks ago.

"Stop Wars To Avert Disaster," Says Hunt

debts of the war alone were sufficient to show where much of the trouble lies. In addition to the cost of the war itself, there was a huge dislocation of business.

"In earlier times, a war was fought by a small army," said Judge Hunt. "Even in Napoleon's day, only a small part of the population was engaged. The fight was between two small armies, and things went on as usual with the rest of the world. But in modern times, when war comes, every man, woman and child is engaged. Remember the posters that read, 'Food Will Win The War,' and 'Clothes Will Win The War.' Remember the 'pacific' All right, but it costs 25 million dollars to build a battleship, and it can be destroyed in five minutes with an aerial bomb. Now it may not be what some people call 'patriotic' to be against that sort of thing. But I'm against it. Let's be called pacifists—let's be unpopular if we have to."

"There's only one hope for this world of ours. That is if men will think. It's hard work, the hardest kind of work, to use our brains, and to think. But we must, or we are lost. H. G. Wells says that the best of civilization rests in the race between education and catastrophe. He means just what I've been talking about. We just can't go on like this. Do you know what the total debt of this country is? The debt of the federal government, plus the debts of the states, plus the debts of the counties, plus the debts of the cities, plus the debts of the townships, plus the debts of the school districts, in this country alone amounts to 432 billions of dollars. And it is the same in every country. I tell you the whole world is broke."

"Well, you say, somebody must have money. The folks to whom this debt is owed must have some thing. But they haven't. They are broke too, because they can't possibly collect the debts that are due them. And we cannot go on as we have and expect the world to survive."

"The trouble with us is that we don't want to do the hard work of thinking. We like to be told what it is useless to hear. We are like sponges, soaking up what other folks say, what they want us to believe. But we must not go on doing that. We must think of ourselves and snark our minds."

Judge Hunt, who is past 70, one of the outstanding figures in public life in Wayne County. In a few remarks after the Judge's address, President N. H. Power recalled that many years ago it was Judge Hunt who fearlessly prosecuted the notorious "Bob" Fraser winning a reputation for courage and devotion to duty.

Judge Hunt came to Farmington as the guest of Judge John J. Schutte.

GREENAN DENIES HE'D NAME SCHRAM AS UNDERSHERIFF

Candidate Says Rumors Are False; Sheriff Makes Supporting Statement

Rumors that if Frank Greenan, undersheriff, is elected sheriff of Oakland County on November 8, he would appoint the present sheriff, Frank Schram, as his undersheriff, were vehemently denied this week by Greenan. The reports were widely circulated and had drawn much comment in this part of the County.

Mr. Greenan told the Enterprise that the reports were undoubtedly circulated by his opposition as part of the campaign. He stated emphatically that if he is elected, there will be not only a new Oakland County sheriff, but a new undersheriff and a new matron. Neither Sheriff Schram, Mr. Schram, nor their son, Cecil, a deputy, will be part of his force, he said.

Sheriff Schram Thursday confirmed Greenan's denial by issuing a statement over his own signature saying that he has other plans beginning January 1, when his term expires, and urging support of Greenan. The sheriff called in Farmington Thursday.

Amateur Vaudeville At Redford Theatre

Saturday night at 9 p. m. the Redford theatre will present its first big Amateur Vaudeville Show. Seven big acts on stage, they clown, sing, dance and make merry.

And on screen the greatest of all football pictures, "Huddle" starring the handsome Ramon Novarro and featured with him the lovely Madge Evans.

Love-making as a high art is being taught audiences at the Redford Theatre Sunday in "Bird of Paradise," the sensational drama which has electrified even blasé Hollywood. The fiery Latin temperament of Dolores Del Rio as the heroine permits her to give one of the most impassioned performances of her career. As an excellent foil for her, Joel McCrea rises to new heights of virile impressiveness.

From the first strange tenderness of love for a god-like white man, the brown-skinned princess of "Bird of Paradise" is seen in the full gamut of infatuation, then develops the pathos of the situation to its fullest possibilities. How she triumphs in sacrificing herself to the barrier of civilization forms the climax of this undying romance of the South seas.
