VALUE OF THE TELEPHONE—Fort Atkinson, Wis., Union. Few people, perhaps, think of the telephone as insurance but nevertheless it is—insurance against fire, insurance against sudden illness, insurance against burglars, etc.

In estimating the average daily value of telephone service to the average farmer, a prominent Wisconsin farmer, in describing the need of the rural telephone, reached the following conclusion: As fire insurance and prevention, 5 cents; as accident and health insurance, 10 cents; as aid to most advantageous marketing of products, 10 cents; visiting with friends and relatives, 5 cents; getting important news quickly, 1 cent; getting long distance calls and telegrams more easily and promptly, 1 cent; arranging for extra help when needed, 3 cents. It is to be noted that the chief value of the telephone, in the opinion of the farmer, is first the means for securing quick assistance in case of a serious accident or if someone is taken suddenly ill, and second, the opportunity it gives the farmer to seek the best markets and sell his products where he can realize the most for them.

Revives Swap Plan

An offer reminiscent of the old-time mill, where the miller made his living solely by taking a percentage of all the grain he ground, is made by Farmington Mills this week. The mills' proposition, however, is more inclusive.

By the terms of this offer, farmers with grain which will bring no profit at present prices may exchange it for not only flour, cereal and feeds, but also for egg washes and other prepared mixtures. And the swap will be made at wholesale prices, as advertised on page two of The Enterprise this week.

G. O. P's Plea Against
Change Told At Rally

In a number of years.
"This is a solemn period in the history of the United States, with dangers confronting us such as we have never faced since the Civil War," Mr. Williams said. "Yet Franklin D. Roosevelt, the modern 'artful dodger,' has presented no constructive program, attempting to win the presidency by pleasing everyone, using his radiant personality and talking only 'glittering generalities'."

Charging that Roosevelt has a following of radicals whom he has not shown he will be able to withstand if elected, and that the New York governor has shown himself ignorant of agricultural problems, and extravagant in the chief office of his own state, Mr. Williams urged that President Hoover be re-elected on his record and be given a Republican majority in Congress to work with.

The president's reconstruction plans have saved the United States from economic disruption, if not complete chaos, the speaker claimed. "By aiding banks, railroads, insurance companies, and building and loan associations, Hoover has preserved the jobs and savings of millions of persons," Mr. Williams said.

"The Democrats who blame the president for the depression know there is no foundation for their claims. The destruction of lives and property in the World War is the basic cause of the depression. A Democratic president elected on the platform that he kept us out of the war loaned ten billions of dollars to European countries, getting no security in exchange, and stormily increasing the national debt. Though I am opposed to debt cancellation," he said, "I believe efforts to recover the money may as well be dropped."

Mr. Williams ridiculed plans of Roosevelt to enable debtor nations to earn the amount they owe the United States by letting them trade here. He argued that this could not be done without injuring American business. Turning to the tariff question, the Nebraska man gave comparative duties on various foods and raw materials to show that the United States has rates lower than those of most foreign nations, and said that Democratic leaders have supported high tariffs numerous times in recent years.

President Hoover has said, in effect, "I will veto any proposals to issue fiat money regardless of what political effect it will have on me," Mr. Williams pointed out. "I cannot believe God has forsaken this nation; and I cannot believe the people will turn to a party with no record and no program," the speaker concluded.

Republican candidates who appeared at the meeting and the offices which they are seeking are: George A. Dondero, 17th District Congressman; Andrew L. Moore, State Senator, 12th District; Melvin Lee, State Representative; Dan A. McGaffey, Juvenile and Probate Judge; Norman C. Orr, Prosecuting Attorney; Frank J. Greenan, Sheriff; Lynn D. Allen, County Clerk; Charles Sparks, County Treasurer; Miss Mabel Brondige, Register of Deeds; Harry J. Merritt and Earl Phillips, William Hanson, Drain Commissioner; and C. Devey Kimball and Lee Voorhees, Coroner.

Curley Burns To Appear
In State Theatre Show

Starting with the matinee Sunday at the State Theatre in Pontiac Curley Burns and his company of 40 merry-makers will enter upon the first week of their present engagement at this popular playhouse. The offering will differ greatly from the previous productions in that this bill which is titled "Her Second Honeymoon" is a witty farce comedy which has proven to be one of the best liked plays in Curley's repertoire.

Curley will play the leading comedy part, that of a negro hotel porter and he has ample opportunity which he uses to great advantage. Howard E. Paden will be found in the romantic leading role of a very much misunderstood husband and Dorsey Farley as the winsome bride will continue to please in her sweet demure way.

Aline Walker will play a part that will be welcomed by the theatre patrons in as much as she will not use the "high brow" make-up that she has used in the comedy roles opposite Curley. So many patrons have asked if she is really "high brow" that Curley is casting her in a white face part. The California Nightingales (Edythe, Edna and Ellen) will offer a new repertoire of harmony singing with Alfreda Pretis assisting at the piano.

Johnny Wayne, Kathryn Malloy and the rest of this popular cast will all be seen to the greatest advantage and the Sixteen Sweet Sixteens will again dance their way into the hearts of their public.

POLICE CHIEF EMPHASIZES
COURTESY OVER TELEPHONE

Writing in a recent issue of the Daily Police Bulletin, the Chief of Police at Louisville, Ky., George M. Ratcliffe, named three places where courtesy by members of the police department is of utmost importance. First he mentioned as the telephone, the other two places being the information desk and the streets.

In instructing the members of the force about their use of the telephone, the Chief said, "The person on the other end of the line has a right to the best answer you can give, and it that answer is given in correct and courteous language, the person leaves the telephone satisfied that you are a gentleman, and that you represent a police department which has the proper conception of its place in public service."

Hard of Hearing Can
Use "Deaf Set" Telephone

It is tantalizing for a person who is hard of hearing to feel that a voice which may have crossed the continent is stopped just as it reaches his ear. In contrast with the task of passing such barriers of space, entering his ear seems a small thing to ask of a voice. From an early day, therefore, the Bell System has tried to provide a means for opening to the hard of hearing a field of conversation by telephone, with the great reach of contact in offices.

It is of interest to persons with impaired hearing that the Bell System offers amplifying equipment to be attached to the standard telephone, which increases the loudness of the voice in the receiver through several degrees of amplification. Where the impairment of a person's hearing takes

The dial mounted on the edge of the telephone, which controls the loudness of the voice coming into the receiver, which may be increased through five degrees of loudness by means of a postage-stamp vacuum-tube amplifier connected with the telephone. The amplifying equipment is contained in the two larger boxes, which may be located in any convenient place in the room.

The form simply of a general lowering of sensitivity, without excessive distortion, such increase in loudness may bring the voice in the telephone receiver up to a readily understandable level and thus permit the satisfactory use of the telephone by those who through deafness had given it up.

In addition to a dial which controls the amount of sound amplification, a switch is attached which can cut out the amplifying equipment entirely and so restore the telephone for use by persons of normal hearing. Dial and switch are mounted close to the telephone, while the two boxes containing the single-step vacuum-tube amplifier, batteries, etc., may be located in some inconspicuous place in the room.

This telephone amplifying equipment does not offer relief to all kinds of deafness, but it has already proved great relief to many persons suffering from certain types of impaired hearing. Arrangements to test its effectiveness in individual cases, without charge, may be made through any Bell System office.

Enjoy yourself and help the kiddies. Benefit dance and entertainment Friday night at Oddfellows Hall, Grand River and Eight Mile. Tickets 25 cents.

Rally Speaker Tells
Of Western Situation

"The Democrats usually win the presidential election in August and lose it at the polls; this year they are winning in October, but I expect November 3 to show the usual result. The Republicans are having a hard fight this year, but we are gaining steadily and I expect President Hoover to be re-elected by more than a narrow margin."

This is the diagnosis of the present national political situation as presented by George W. Williams, former lieutenant-governor of Nebraska, speaker at the Farmington Republican rally, in an interview following the meeting.

Hoover's chances have looked poor in my home state, Nebraska, but I believe the speeches of Roosevelt in the middle west have helped Hoover. The Democratic candidate lost votes by displaying great ignorance of our problems.

Iowa is safe for the president after his Des Moines speech, and Kansas, more strongly Democratic this year than any other midwestern state, is swinging to Hoover. Illinois is doubtful, but Hoover's speech in Chicago this Saturday should help the Republican cause."

Mr. Williams was elected lieutenant-governor of Nebraska in 1925, 1927, and 1929, retiring from office voluntarily.

Made-over children's clothes are usually more successful if the material chosen is not too old in weave, color or figure. A little boy's suit will be more suitable if made from his father's light suit than a dark one, and the little girl will look better in bright colors than in brown or grey made from mother's last year's dress. Adding contrasting bright colors in trimming or re-dyeing often makes it possible to use dull colored materials for children's clothes.
