Pontiacs On Parade

Pontiac Motor Division's 1972 line-up features a new intermediate luxury series and a long list of engineering innovations, including a new energy-absorbing bumper for all full-size Pontiacs.

From its compact Ventura II to the top-of-the line Grand Ville, Pontiac covers the automobile market with 32 models, including 17 Pontiacs, eight LeMans intermediates, four Firebirds, two Venturas and the Grand Prix.

The new addition to the intermediate line is the Luxury LeMans. Featuring a distinctive grille, a chrome-plated front valance panel, lower body side moldings, rear wheel opening covers, a horizontal rear deck molding and special interiors, the Luxury will be available in two and four-door hardtop models.

The energy absorbing system consists of two telescoping steel boxes which contain urethane positioned between the bumper and the frame of the car. Since the urethane blocks are not damaged by an impact, the bumper can be struck numerous times during the life of the car and continue to absorb energy. A rubber strip running horizontally across the bumper protects it from scratches.

This bumper will be standard on the Catalina, Catalina Brougham, Bonneville, Grand Ville, Safari and Grand Safari.

In addition, the rear bumper on the regular Pontiacs has been modified in both the frame bar and the mounting brackets. As on the front, a rubber strip protects against damage.

PONTIAC'S NEWEST -- Pontiac Motor Division's all-new Luxury LeMans features a distinctive grille, lower body side moldings, rear wheel opening covers and special interiors. The Luxury is available in two and four-door hardtop models.
