

Campaign Reform Urged By Esch

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has joined with a bi-partisan group of House members to seek "workable and meaningful campaign reform legislation."

A bill proposed by the Senate group is stronger than one recently reported out of a House committee, he said.

The Senate bill would require reports six times a year as a constant monitor on elections whereas the House bill only requires two reports, one before and one after the election.

"THE PUBLIC would have no real idea of what contributions are made until two weeks before an election," Esch said of the House version. "This means there could be a full year and a half before political committees start their disclosures."

The Senate version has "all the necessary dimensions, including timely disclosure, reasonable limitations on spending, independent supervision, and is not heavily weighed in favor of incumbents," Esch added.

He praised the bill recently signed by the president which should "eliminate the doctor shortage by the end of the decade."

The new act provides federal support for medical education by authorizing expenditure of $750 million for construction of teaching and research facilities over a three-year period. Another $763 million would be available for grants to medical and public health professional schools.

An open house is planned for Clarenceville's Edgewood Elementary School on Wednesday, Dec. 15. Hours will be from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. with refreshments served in the gymnasium from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Children are being invited to attend the open house session with their parents. Books and reading materials will be on sale in the school library.

Edgewood Cub Scout Pack 234 will hold a bake sale in the gymnasium in conjunction with the open house. Proceeds will be used to further Cub Scout activities.
