ALERT OPERATOR SENDS POLICE, WHO SAVE TWO

Miss Eleanor Gattley, night telephone operator of the Leonia, N. J., telephone central office is credited with saving the lives of two persons in a fire early on morning recently in the home of Frank McKenna, Cortesville, N. J.

At the time, Mrs. McKenna was alone in the house with her six year old child. Awakened by smoke which filled the bedroom, she made her way to the telephone, where she apparently fainted after taking the receiver of the hook.

The alert telephone operator at the switchboard heard the word "fire," and then silence. She called police headquarters at Fort Lee, and a policeman found the woman unconscious on the floor near the telephone and carried mother and daughter to safety.

CHILD SUMMONS AID WHEN FAMILY IS FEELED BY GAS

Because little ten-year-old Bessie Kafka of Baltimore not only knew how to use the telephone, but also recognized its value in an emergency, she was able to summon aid when her mother and little three-year-old brother John were overcome by coal gas recently. When the gas began to seep upstairs from the furnace, no one noticed it until all three began to grow weak from its effects. Suddenly the mother and baby brother collapsed, and Bessie, almost overcome herself, tried to rouse them. But they were already unconscious, and, terror-stricken, the child ran to the telephone and called a nearby relative. Within a few minutes police and a municipal ambulance crew, with a resuscitation machine, were on the scene, and after nearly an hour's efforts succeeded in reviving both the mother and child.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bond spent Sunday at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Bert Havens of Detroit.
