POPULAR BELIEFS ON DEATH RATES ARE DISPROVED

What effect does a man's job have on the length of his life? An answer to this question, after five years of study by Miss Jessamine Whitney, statistician of the National Tuberculosis Association, was given this week for the first time in a report made public by the association.

Despite popular belief, the most dangerous occupation of all was not found among aviators, policemen, firemen or miners. It was found that among working men between 16 and 64 years of age, stable hands and hostlers have the highest death rate, 38.22 deaths from all causes, per thousand employed.

Aviators, in fact, were third on the list with a rate of 28.73, while coal miners were far, far down with 12.29. And the job of policing our country is only slightly more hazardous than that of getting out its newspapers—while putting out its fires seems to come in the "sissy" class. The respective rates for policemen, editors (and reporters), and firemen are 9.91, 8.77, and 6.71. These three are close to the average of 8.70 per thousand for all "gainfully employed" males between 15 and 64.

If you want a really safe occupation, the report reveals, become a machinist's apprentice or work in a candy factory. Those rates are the lowest of all, 0.61 and 0.91 respectively.

The report, entitled "Death Rates by Occupation," contains eight comprehensive tables, and is based on the United States Census Bureau for ten states which comprise 38 per cent of the country's population.

Comfort and Safety

For the whole family

In the Ford V-8 Tudor Sedan

Of course, this car is a comfortable car—double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and free action for all four wheels take care of that. But above all, this Tudor V-8 is a safe car.

Its one-piece, welded steel body is reinforced with steel. Both standard and deluxe models have a safety glass windshield and there is safety glass throughout on deluxe models.

With grown-ups in the comfortable, individual front seats, a child's playful fingers cannot reach from behind to open doors—The whole family is safe surrounded by a wall of steel and safety glass, cushioned comfortably in a roomy, richly upholstered interior.

Why not borrow a Ford V-8 Tudor from us and take your family for a tryout spin? No cost... No obligation—All we ask is two hours' notice by telephone as to when you'll be ready. Phone us today.

a dime a day

... brings you 60 gallons of ELECTRIC HOT WATER!

FOR less than the cost of a package of cigarettes, you can enjoy the convenience and comfort of sixty gallons of hot water heated electrically at a new low rate. Under the terms of this new service offered by The Detroit Edison Co. to its customers, 10c a day provides 60 gallons of hot water, and 12c a day 80 gallons. This low rate is made possible by heating the water electrically during the night, at a time when the demand for electricity for other uses is lowest. The water thus heated is stored in a well-insulated tank, where it is available for use during the next twenty-four hours.

Should more hot water be wanted than the tankful heated each night, a separate electric element is located in the top of the tank, which automatically turns on to heat additional water. The electricity used to heat this additional water is registered by the electric meter and charged for at the usual rate.

An electric water heater may be either bought or rented. Rental rates for heaters are low, and if you prefer to buy the heater, convenient monthly terms may be arranged. Customers who wish electric hot water in the summer months only, when the furnace is off, may get this service at a slightly higher rate—about 13c a day for 60 gallons, and 16c a day for 80 gallons.

Think of the constant daily uses you have for hot water—for your many household needs, for washing and shaving, for invigorating showers, for cooling and refreshing baths. Isn't it worth while having a dependable, carefree hot water service—one that will furnish hot water in abundance when you need it, without waiting or annoyance? Let us give you further information about electric hot water... or better still, let us install an electric hot water heater in your home today. Telephone or bring your order to any Detroit Edison office.
