EAST LANSING
Michigan State University will begin a "Task Force on Lifelong Education" in January to redefine the roles of adult and continuing education programs.
In announcing the $30,000 grant from the Kellogg edort, MSU President Citton R. Wharton Jr. said that traditional programs in these areas have served a rather limited collection of primarily mobile, middle prefessional groups.
"If Michigan State University is to maintain its great heritage of service to the citizens of Michigan," he said, "we must expand educational opportunities to the full range of individuals."
