

Suburbs To Get Visit From State 'Artrain'

PLYMOUTH
"Kaleidoscope Plymouth" will be the showcase this coming spring for an 18-day visit here by Michigan Artrain, it was announced this week.

More than that, however, it also is hoped "Kaleidoscope Plymouth" will remain the theme and springboard for reflection of Plymouth's creative spirit in subsequent years through local promotion of other cultural events.

"Kaleidoscope Plymouth" is being incorporated as an official entity and will bring Michigan Artrain to Plymouth April 19 through May 6.

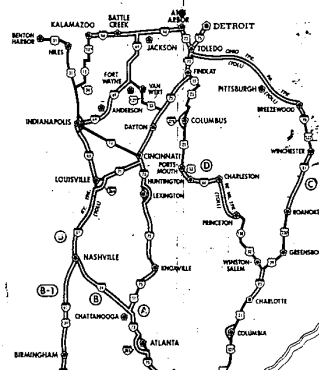

Of 23 appearances booked from Feb. 1 through Nov. 27, 1972 throughout the state, this is the only showing which has been arranged in Oberlin, where the five-car train which, in effect, is a gallery on wheels.

Called "A Vision of Art," the special train, which was originated by the Michigan Council for the Arts, will stand in Plymouth on the C&O siding at the Starkweather Ave. freight office.

VAST IMPROVEMENTS in the area's appearance are being planned by a site preparation committee which includes Bud Gould, Tom Warren and Harold Guenther.

Because this will be Artrain's first visit to this area, thousands of persons are expected to converge here from surrounding suburbs during its 18-day program.

Here Are Best Travel Routes To Florida

With winter arriving, over 525,000 Michiganians are expected to visit an ever-expanding world of sun, fun and fantasy in Florida by spring - all of it easier to reach by car than ever before, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Recently completed sections of the I-75 freeway between Sault Ste. Marie and St. Petersburg, Florida, will allow Michigan motorists to catch up with the sun in record time.

New additions to the superhighway - near Detroit, Toledo, Ohio, Knoxville, Tenn., Atlanta and Macon, Ga. - total 30 miles and bring the freeway to almost 90 percent completion.

Once motorists arrive in the Sunshine State, the main problem will be which city to visit or what attractions to see.

WHERE TO GO and what to see has already been decided by many vacationers with the recent opening of Walt Disney World near Orlando off I-75.

In 1972, this giant 2,500-acre entertainment-resort complex is expected to be a major drawing card for Florida.

Just north of Daytona Beach lies Marco Polo Park, a botanical garden and entertainment complex which depicts parts of the world that the 12th century traveler might have seen.
