Report to Stockholders Shows Progress Made by Bank in Year

Evidencing both the return of better times and the exceptions and report sent out to the stockholders of Farmington's banking institution within the past year a report sent out to the stockholders of Farmington State Bank this week shows in complete detail and leasily understood fighters the remarkable growth of the new bank, which has far exceeded expectations.

remarkable growth of the new bank, which has far exceeded expectations.

The complete report, printed herewith, is of sufficient interest to justify thorough reading, but four major points in the statement may be pointed out as significant. One is the sharp increase of undivided profits from $1,623.34 a year ago to $6,183.30. These trems leave out of account a profit which could be realized immediately if the bank wanted to sell its bonds, since the bonds held are worth over $5,00 more than they are carried at on the bonds. Still another point of increast, not shown in the report to get that today the stock has increased substantially in book with $14.60 a year ago, a gain of $1.82 a share. The par value of the stock is $10.00 me. The report, prepared by Cashier Howard C. Knickerbocker, is as follows:

FARMINGTON YOUNG MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

NARROW ESCAPE
With toy roads and sleet-covered windshields contributing heavily to accidents in this vicinity, Farmington residents have been fortunate to escape without serious injuries, cillowing the accident which took one life on New Year's Day on Grand River.

A Lansing truck driver, however, lost his life on the highway between Farmington and Novi, when he fell asleep and his truck hit a tree Saturday morning. Lewis Mass 24, of Farmington, had a nanrow escape when his car coilided with another Farmington-owned vehicle on Grand River at the corner of Wixom road. Mass was cut about the head.

The latter accident occurred just

about the head.

The latter accident occurred just at daybreak Saturday morning. The latter accident occurred just at daybreak Saturday morning. Meas was driving to his work, for the Delroit Edison Co. He approached the corner of Grand River and Wixom road behind a truck owned by Warner Dairy Co, and driven by Irvin Martin. Maas was unable to see the truck because of sleet on his windshield, until to late to avoid a collision. He saved himself by swerving his car sidewise to the right, so that it hit the rear end of the truck a giancing blow, rather than head-on. Although the windshield of the car atruck the back of the truck almost directly in front of where he was was broken out of the frame, head cuts were the drivers only injuries. Had Maas struck the truck head on, it is believed the top of his car would have been torn oft game. Had Maas struck the truck head on, it is believed the top of his car would have been torn oft game. The report that a haulaway truck carrying four new automobiles had turned over Saturday morning on the McGee Hill caused some excitement, but it developed that the driver was more alarmed than his cargo was hurt. Before he reached the top of the sharp incline, his vehicle got out of control and sills back down the hill, but did not overturn, and the new cars were not damaged. the nead. latter accident occurred just
