Every Year 10,000 Suffer

(Exchange)
Infantile paralysis (acute anterior poliomyelitis) accounts for 27.26 per cent of the cripples among children. Every year some 10,000 youngsters are struck down and in epidemic years the toll of the disease increases to 100,000. Until a comparatively short time ago so little was known about the disease that the stricken ones were absolutely without hope.

It was the first President Roosevelt who first stirred public interest in cripples by inviting to the White House in 1909 the social workers' conference on dependent children. The desire for knowledge with which to conquer infantile paralysis was intensely felt by the sufferings of the victims in Vermont and New York during the period of 1914-1916, when in New York City alone 6,574 surviving children required clinical treatment.

And now another President Roosevelt is taking the lead in this great fight against the scourge that can, in a few days, sweep up a child in the full bloom of health and cast him into a pit of terror and pain. Tremendous advances are being made in research, methods of treatment and preventive measures. All over the country the battle is being waged that will, it is hoped, eventually stamp out the dread disease entirely.

In 1925 President Roosevelt discovered that bathing in the water at Warm Springs was particularly efficacious in helping the paralysis victims. He was so impressed with his own and others' improvement that he decided in 1925 to conduct some experimental work. Twenty-three patients were placed under observation, and at the end of their treatment a detailed report of each case was made to three prominent orthopedic surgeons. Each expressed unqualified approval of the establishment of the hydrotherapeutic center at Warm Springs, and on July 27, 1927, the Warm Springs Foundation was incorporated.

On the night of January 30, 1936, the President's 54th birthday, more than five thousand cities and towns all over the United States will unite in their third country-wide party. The purpose is to establish through the direct help of the citizens of the country an endowment fund, so that the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation and other agencies engaged in the fight against infantile paralysis may carry on the national crusade. Seventy per cent of the proceeds will go to the community in which they are raised; thirty per cent will be sent to Warm Springs Foundation.

And the best of it is that every one can take part. It need not even be done in a spirit of self-interest, for there is no one who will not enjoy the Birthday Ball for the President. So come to the ball and be gay. Be double gay, for your good time will be doubled by the satisfaction of knowing that you are doing good.

This Editor Knows

(Linton Leader)
Thank God for friends and friendships, for what would we humans do without them, and what dreary place this old world would be if we were denied that fellowship which flows from kindred minds. A friend is more than an acquaintance, for a friend is one who likes you despite your faults and mistakes. This I think is more appreciated when folks reach the twilight of life, for so many of the old friends have passed on, and those who linger are nothing less than treasures beyond compare, and rich is the man or woman who has them.

The Only Three

(Dearborn Press)
The most ironic "editorial" on the subject of speed appears quite inadvertently in an engagement book issued by the New York Telephone Company. It presents the name of speed record holders in three fields, as follows:
Air... Lieutenant Francesco Angello of Italy 446.29 mph.
Water... Garfield A. Wood of the United States—124.88 mph.
Land... Sir Malcolm Campbell of England... 301.337 mph.
What a blow this must be to the thousands of amateur speeders throughout the country! The only places their names may appear in the police blotter or the obituary page.

Charing Cross

Up to the time of Charles II, Charing Cross stood among the fields in London. The name is derived from the Saxon word "char", meaning a turning. In 1201 Edward I erected at Charing the last of thirteen crosses which marked the route of the funeral procession of his wife Eleanor, from Grantham, Lincolnshire, to Westminster. The cross was taken down in 1647. A modern memorial cross is inside the Charing Cross station yard. Eleanor journeyed with Edward I to the Holy Land and asked the poison from a wound dealt her husband by a Moor.

Voltaire and Catherine

The Empress Catherine of Russia was a great admirer of Voltaire, the great French philosopher, and once sent him a small ivory box made by her own hands as token of her admiration. Voltaire, in return, had himself taught knitting and started on a pair of stockings for her. He only half finished before his patient gave out, but unfinished as they were, he sent them on to the empress, as token of work also done by his own hands.

One Overpowering Smoke

Among the plants made use of by the Indians of southern California is wild tobacco. A few inhalations of the smoke early in the morning are enough to overcome the smoker, so that he is unable to stand or move. He inhales until this extreme dizziness is achieved and then he touches tobacco no more for the rest of the day.
