The First Lightboure
The Phence of Alexandria, one of the Seren Wonders of the Ancient World, was perhaps the first lighthouse. Upon the top of a 400 foot tower built on an Island just off the Egyptian city, two wood fires were kept constantly burning. Candies were next used to furnish warning signait, followed by lamps burning first whale oil, then kerosene, keroseene oil vapor, acetylene gas, and now electricity.
