The Best Selling Books

Every year a number of books are written which become best sellers...

If you haven't already read or purchased a copy, we believe you will be much interested in the new edition of "The Bible"...

Charles Dickens once wrote to his son: "I put a New Testament among your books—because it is the best book that ever was or ever will be in the world..."

A Century of Patents

Every successful invention of the last 100 years owes its development to the useful article or process in the United States Patent system...

The protection afforded by American patent laws helped to make possible the swift development of most of the industrial products of today...

These and others would have gained little support were inventors not certain that original patents would be protected against infringement...

The law is by no means perfect. Probably it never can be, so for every invention, no matter how simple, is the result of effort on the part of many individuals...

Education in Nutrition (Exchange) No field of health teaching has more importance for all the people than nutrition.

Discarding the Old

One reason the depression lasted, only it got under way, was because people stopped buying. Even if we needed new things and had the money...

When an office visitor lights a pipe you know you're in for a long session. This country will recover, no matter who wins the argument about the gold standard.

sonably better to warrant the change we are giving life to industry, and a stimulus to business...

Men of Vision

Imagination is the world, they say, and this is more than ever true of the present time. We are in a new period, one calling for wide use of the imagination...

Today there are hundreds of fields still unfenced, more roadways opening to those people having clear sight and sound judgment than ever before...

Shopping Early

I think the advice to shop early for Christmas is excellent—and the other day I tried it, having an abundance of that giving spirit.

"Spent another hour in a vain attempt to select book ends which I could afford from quantities of beautiful ones which I could not afford. Same thing happened in the clock department...

Education in Nutrition

No field of health teaching has more importance for all the people than nutrition. Today, nearly every person understands what is meant by a balanced diet...

Window Cords and Washers

By MADHELINE DIAZ, of Michigan Newspaper Syndicate, 1232 E. Warren.

SIXTY-YEAR-OLD John Henderson was the handy man who do the job of repairing at 47 Gorton place, once a sedately fashionable private residence...

"I don't have to leave for fifteen minutes," she said. "You were considerate to come now."

"Well, I'm like that," Mr. Henderson admitted without reluctance. "Always figuring out how I can do a good turn to someone whether I know 'em or not."

"But I really do like it better here—I'm sure I do," Daphne said. Henderson taking his suggestions in the spirit in which they were given...

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Henderson, soothingly. "Just naturally—a home-body even if you do work in an office. That's not a bad thing."

"Well," said Mr. Henderson, "I can't blame you if you came in a little late. Natural for a young girl like you to want to get about a bit. And say, I was just thinking how much handier it would be for you if you took a room in one of these new Y. W. C. A. places..."

"Kinda lonely, I suppose. Well it was that way too at your age. Lonely and kinda shy. We've been married now thirty-five years—Sarah and me. Took a couple of years before I could tell her I cared for her and all the time was wondering what ailed me that I didn't. Funny thing about young folks."

"Not so funny sometimes," Robert said as much to himself as to the handy man. "One way it is and one it isn't," said Mr. Henderson. "There's a girl down below here in this building. As pretty and sweet and good looking as a bunch of evergreens. Likes to cook and as much as said she'd like a home of her own. She 'pears to be lonely, and shy too."

"Second floor front?" "Sure-thing," said Mr. Henderson with a chuckle, and still chuckling went on with his tinkering. "But why didn't you tell me you were willing to have me come back?" Robert asked Daphne that evening after he had summoned courage to ring her door bell and enter his accustomed place in her cheerful living room.

CANCER EDUCATION CAMPAIGN IS ORGANIZED

Believing that many forms of cancer are curable when adequately treated in their early stages the Joint Committee on Public Health Education with the leadership of the state medical society has launched a state-wide educational campaign which will bring to every interested organization in the state the facts regarding the cause, prevention and cure of cancer.

Ranked second only to heart disease as a major cause of death, cancer took 5,191 lives in this state last year. Armed with pamphlets illustrated lectures and the cooperation of local medical societies, more than a score of member organizations of the Joint Committee will take a leading part in attempting to halt Michigan's rising cancer death rate.

Speaking before the public health conference at Lansing last week, Dr. Carl V. Weller, director of the University pathological laboratories, sounded the keynote of the campaign when he declared that in the light of present knowledge the cancer death rate may be decreased 25 per cent or more. Early diagnosis of the disease is imperative, said Dr. Weller, for it is in this early stage that successful treatment is possible.

Cancer, a disorderly growth of body cells which may spread throughout the body, may be indicated by the presence of any lump or mass in the breast or any other part of the body; any sore which does not readily heal, particularly on the face or in the mouth; or any unusual discharge or bleeding from any part of the body. Pain is not an early symptom. The Joint Committee with offices at 107 Haven Hall, Ann Arbor, will act as a clearing house for information regarding cancer.

An illustrated lecture given by physicians may be arranged for interested groups, and educational leaflets and detailed pamphlets are also available free upon request. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith entertained at the home of Mrs. Perry Wipston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jameson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wisom and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Pigeon on Thanksgiving Day.
