Farmers Must Use Adapted Seed

Farmers must use alfalfa seed adapted to Michigan in order to draw any payment on seedings on the 1937 Soil Conservation Program.

A large quantity of foreign seed is being shipped in and the Government is taking this way of barring its use. Growers may obtain further information from the County Agent or the local Soil Conservation Committee.

The high esteem in which Superintendent of Schools John A. Dalrymple is held by his present and former students is given in the following tribute written by Douglas Parker.

"The article, expressing the respect and friendship of the many students of Mr. Dalrymple during his seven years as Superintendent of Farmington Schools, appeared in the Epworth Echo and is here with reprinted at the request of a number of Farmington students: "It was with extreme sorrow that I read last week of the retiring of our Superintendent of Schools, Mr. John Dalrymple. To my mind, Farmington High School is losing a wonderful character and a fine friend."

Perhaps it means more to me than it does to most people, because Mr. Dalrymple was Superintendent during all my years of Junior and Senior High School, and during those six years I grew to love and respect him for the fine gentleman that he is. He has an excellent philosophy of life, and a certain Christian application of those principles that stand him out high above the crowd.

Although he does not always agree with the devils ways of the younger generation, certainly he is a profound believer in the young people themselves and for that reason his guidance of the students was always beyond reproach. Even though the students themselves could not be always brought to see the light, his was the guiding hand that steered them constantly in the right channel, as far as it was within his power to do so. And his power was much.

Truly, his friendly counsel and advice was much sought after and more heeded. Farmington students of the past realize that and appreciate it. It is true that there are those who disagree with him, but there is none who does not respect him. And to be looked up to and thoroughly respected in this day and age is certainly, no mean accomplishment."

CORN-FED KID FROM THE WEST

HE joined up in '17. Didn't quite know what it was all about, but it seemed the thing to do at the time. Then the front—and suddenly War lost every vestige of its glamor. He was scared. He was bewildered. He and another kid, who had become his best friend on earth, were out on a patrol. Something hit them. His friend was instantly transformed into a filthy mass of blood and bones and slime. He himself was too weak to move, or call for help, or groan. Then he moved no more, ever.

Poor kid? Of course. But perhaps he was lucky after all. He didn't live to see the beautiful ideal he fought for—"To make the World Safe for Democracy." . . . "To Protect the Rights of Little Nations." . . . "War to End War"—proven to be the empty notes with which the Pious Fifers had lured so many kids like him to their deaths. He didn't live to learn that millions of dollars had been spent by various interests to "educate" our people to the necessity of entering the war on the "right side." And he didn't live to see the whole world ready to be at each other's throats again. . . . "To protect the rights as sitting by stupidly, shouting 'Isn't it terrible—but what can we do about it?'" Well, we can try to do something! Write to World Peaceways, 103 Park Ave., New York City.
