

Work On Grand River Nears End

The last few hundred feet of paving to be completed this year as a part of the project to widen Grand River avenue is now being laid as rapidly as possible in order to have the highway open at an early date. It is expected that thoroughfare will be open sometime during the latter part of next week.

For the past week workers on the project have been laying new sidewalks from Farmington road to the intersection of Oakland avenue and Grand River where it was necessary to remove the old walks in order that the highway might be widened to 40 feet.

Additional strips of pavement are to be laid at the west end of the Cut-off in order to widen the curb at that point as an aid to reducing the possibility of future accidents. Yet remaining to be completed is the laying of the ten-foot strip of paving on the south side of Grand River near the Cut-off, where the pavement is being widened to 30 feet. Approximately 600 feet remains to be paved.

Catch basins and man-holes have already been constructed along the highway from Farmington road to the Cut-off which are expected to adequately take care of the drainage of the road bed. Forms, into which concrete will be poured to form curbs, have been constructed along the highway and this part of the project will probably be completed within the week.

The final piece of construction, that of the building of a new drain on the north side of Grand River to connect with the city's sewer system, will be begun early in the winter. State surveyors and engineers have already laid out the line of drainage across the road as a result of a public hearing of Farmington residents with members of the State Drain Commission. The plan which will go into effect is that proposed by Emory Hutton, commissioner of city streets. The original plan was for a drain to be constructed south of Grand River avenue to link up with the present drain on Five Mile road, but after a number of protests by persons living in that vicinity, Hutton's plan was accepted.

F.H.S. TO PLAY BRIGHTON IN FINAL GAME

The Farmington High School football squad will journey to Brighton Friday for the final game of the season. Although the squad was beaten last week in their game with Roseville by a 12 to 0 score, the team has an even chance to turn victory in their last game of the season.

Should the team come out on top of the final contest, they will have won five games and lost four out of the nine games scheduled for this season.

The Roseville team playing here Friday in the last home game of the season, proved too much for the Farmington squad both offensively and on defensive play. The Blue and White line was unable to hold the Roseville squad from being incompletely or intercepted passes. Both Roseville touchdowns were made by passes; one completed by their own team and the other by an intercepted pass following a Roseville man in the sixty yards for the second and final touchdown of the game.

The starting line up for the Brighton game will probably remain the same as that of last week as follows: T. Bantford, E. D. Brown, L. T. Killen, L. G. McKelvey, C. Davis, R. G. Oles, R. T. Lutz, R. E.; Dwyer, R. F.; Pink, L. H.; Lee, G.; and Turner, F.

Indications of an increased rigidity of discipline which many parents have felt was desirable in the conduct of Farmington Public Schools, is indicated in reports of an incident which has come to light, in connection with the recent Farmington-Walled Lake football game at Walled Lake. The result of the incident has been to implant in the minds of students the realization that rules of conduct laid down are to be obeyed to the letter.

The occurrence involved one of the star players of the griffin team, which, on the occasion of playing against the season's most difficult opponent, Walled Lake, needed every bit of strength it was possible to muster.

Requests had been made for the player to make the trip to Walled Lake. Supt. Robert Burns, surmising that the star member of the squad referred to would probably wish to drive up in a car with his girl, was the only player that he must either obey the rules as to transportation or he would not be permitted to play.

Ignoring the warning, apparently in the belief that in the season's hardest game the coach and school authorities would not want to lose his services, the player defied the order and drove to Walled Lake with his girl. He went to the car with his girl, and leaving the field with a flourish, and leaving the car in plain view of a considerable number. Then he went into the team's quarters and dressed.

When he came out upon the field in uniform, Supt. Burns went over to him and informed him that he might as well not go any further, because he was not to participate that day. Astounded, the player said he could not believe that he was not to be in the lineup, until consultation with the coach proved to him that the head of the school system meant business. And, although the team was considerably handicapped by loss of the star's services, he stood on the sidelines instead of starting on the field before the eyes of his schoolmates and particularly "his girl."

While nothing has emanated from the incident, the Superintendent himself concerning the matter, the reason for the star's absence from the lineup that day against Walled Lake quickly spread among the student body, and since that time the parents, where the report has been with no little satisfaction, as indicating that students of Farmington Schools are being trained to "obey orders."

In his talk Mr. Leonard declared that methods of warfare have changed considerably since the World War. That armies no longer use gas and mustard, but endeavor to wipe out nations. ## To Conduct Series Of Safety Broadcasts

Built-in safety for the highways of the nation, by the use of modern engineering methods, to decrease the outrageous number of yearly highway-accident deaths and disabilities, will be the subject of a series of three broadcasts to be presented through the facilities of 350 radio stations throughout the 48 states. These broadcasts have been scheduled for presentation in conjunction with the nationwide campaign of the Committee on Safe Highways of the American Road Builders' Association.

More than 175 stations have this week begun broadcasting these safe-highway programs and the voices of the three broadcasts will have been brought to millions of safety-minded listeners by all of the 350 stations by the middle of November.

The highway engineer has clearly proved that it is every bit as practical and economical to build safety into the road as it has been for the automotive engineer to construct safety into the modern motor vehicle.

The three safe highway broadcasts will substantially augment the safety campaigns that are presently being conducted by hundreds of daily and weekly newspapers and by many of the nationally-circulated magazines.
