Who Will Fill Martin's Post?

The resignation of Dr. George Martin, at-large Schoolcraft College trustee, was formally accepted by the board last week leaving the board faced with a 75 per cent turnover in the fall. Martin's immediate resignation, which was for health and professional considerations, means there will be six new trustees in October on the eight-member board. Five trustees will be elected at an at-large election on Sept. 13.

Since his resignation came one week after the closing date for filing petitions to the election, a candidate can not be elected to fill the two years left in his term.

EITHER THE newly-elected board or the current board will have to appoint a person to fill the term. No action to this effect was taken at Wednesday's meeting.

In order for his seat to be put on the ballot, candidates would have had to petition specifically for his seat.

Board member James Boswell stated that Martin's resignation was "collusively and/or intentionally delayed until after the filing date."

The main reason Martin gave for his late resignation was a health problem that shows signs of recurring. His doctor has advised him to whittle down his list of activities to prevent recurrence of the illness. He had been hospitalized with it last summer.

A SECOND reason was that his responsibilities as a computer science professor at the University of Detroit have increased and infringe more on his time than when he was elected to the board in June 1967.

Another consideration stated by Martin in his letter to Board Chairman Jane Moehle is that as chairman of an accrediting team for the American Association of Business Schools, he could be required to miss board meetings as a result of increased assignments in this area.

A final and "most important" reason was to be able to spend more time with his wife, Candis, a business instructor at Schoolcraft, and his children.

"In a sense, I have had too many irons in the fire, and I have tried to keep them all hot," Martin said. "I have given careful thought over the past few weeks to my professional activities and responsibilities and have tried to put them in proper perspective. The result has been the systematic divesting of some of these activities from my professional life."

"Please be assured of my great regret in taking this step," Martin continued. "Nothing short of physical necessity and the need for mental well-being could bring me to resign from a position which has held such pleasant associations and which has been my absorbing interest for the past four years."

Bailey Photos 'City Within' Display Set

A photo exhibit by Detroit photographer J. Edward Bailey III will be displayed at Wonderland Center between Aug. 16 and Sept. 10.

The photos will be displayed from 12 noon until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday in the voter registration trailer at the west end of the center.

Bailey was commissioned by the Detroit Institute of Arts and sponsored by the Ford Motor Co. to create "The City Within."

College Settles Contract

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees voted to pay a $25,000 settlement to Hyatt Construction Co. for the Physical Education Building.

In May, the board had withheld $50,000 from the final payment to the company because the building was 200 days late in completion.

The settlement was negotiated by the college and the company.

Board member B. William Secord said the payment was satisfactory to the college because to enter a legal dispute would be costly to the college and the final decision would unlikely be the full $50,000.

Wilcox Joins DVM Practice In Farmington

Neil L. Wilcox, doctor of veterinary medicine and a recent honor graduate of Michigan State University, is the new associate of a Farmington DVM.

Wilcox will work with Dr. John Richardson.

Wilcox won numerous honors at MSU, including membership in Phi Zeta, a veterinary scholastic honorary. He was also elected president of his graduating class.

He and his wife, a teacher, will reside at Independence Green apartments.

S'craft OKs Medical Leave

A medical leave for an employee on the physical plant staff was approved by the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

The leave was for Elmer Avery, who will be on the college's long term disability insurance program until he reaches retirement age, when he will be eligible for social security.

The board was also informed of the resignations of Mrs. Patricia Frescura, a counselor, and of Zigmund Pulczynski, a drafting instructor.

UCS Aide For County Appointed

Rolando H. Shorey has been named planning assistant for the Wayne division of United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit (UCS).

He has been assigned to work with George Corcoran, division director, as well as the leaders of several Overland communities.

He will study and act on health and social concerns which affect the well-being of area residents. The communities include Canton Township, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford and Westland.

One of Shorey's major responsibilities at the UCS Division is working with Communities United for Action, an O.E.O. project for eight communities in Wayne County which was initiated by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.
