feeding upon the underside of leaves. The foliage turns pale and sickly and soon drops off. Constant loss in vigor of the tree is reflected in the size and quality of the fruit.
Effective Control
Control is not too difficult, says Professor Hanson. A summer oil and nicotine spray is considered effective. This is the same type of spray now being used and recommended for use by those attacking the second brood of codling moth.
Orchard owners who have used a lime-sulphur spray within the last two weeks can use bill poster's paste for the control of the red mites. This material differs from just flour and water paste as bill poster's paste is cooked under pressure.
So the battle continues. The year 1938 is giving entomologists worry that Dame Nature may be taking the side of the bugs this summer. Weather conditions, for instance, have induced three broods of the codling moth to appear, instead of the customary two broods.

Six sets of quadruplets were born in the United States in 1936, the U. S. Census Bureau reports.

RED SPIDER MAY BE FRUIT TREE'S SNAKE IN GRASS Nature seems to have a grandstand seat this summer in the drops of agricultural products and insect pests.
Take the word of Professor Ray Huston of the entomology department of Michigan State College. The newest warning is against the red spider or red mites which threaten to defoliate enough fruit trees to cause tremendous loss in quality and size of fruit as well as tree vitality.
Sprays to control the red spider are advised. The insects are far more prevalent than usual.

Are Your Guides To Value Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it, its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and the balance of it, all mean something to their trained eyes and fingers.
But no one person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the material that makes up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.
There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch... knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or use of shoddy materials.
This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The advertised product is worthy of your confidence Merchandise must be good or it couldn't be consistently advertised.
