CM-4-75-11 RESOLUTION FROM STATE SAFETY COMMISSION RE: TRAFFIC CONTROL

Letter and resolution from Richard Austin, Secretary of State, stating that the State Safety Commission has been studying the problem of general and community problems as they impact on law enforcement services, particularly traffic control. They state there seems to be a tendency for city administrators to seek relief from the problem by reducing police manpower allocations to the traffic problem. Therefore they are requesting the City Council to make a careful study of the problem they enclosed, and if possible grant the resolution in its entirety. The resolution states in essence, that during the year 1970, 2,177 deaths, 161,719 personal injuries and 209,774 cases of property damage were charged to traffic accidents. Hence the State Commission has set a goal of $400,000,000. Eighty per cent of the victims were within a radius of 25 miles of their home. This condition is preventable. Traffic law enforcement programs have resulted in a reduction of deaths and injuries in several Michigan communities. Technical assistance and information are available to assist community enforcement agencies in the management of their problems.

The resolution goes on to state that certain Federal and state funds can be applied to help increase their operational potential, therefore they are requesting the City Council to:

1. support the law enforcement agencies in their jurisdiction
2. provide for reasonable studies to be made to better understand the nature of traffic and police problems
3. provide suitable advance training, instrumentation and management potential of the personnel and the agency for more efficient operation
4. inform the many members of the general public that the problem is being done for their benefit.

The extreme northwest corner of Southfield is known as "the gateway to the city." Opinions vary widely as to how it should be developed. A group of developers say there is a need for a modern urban mercantile-office center on the east side of Inkster between Northwestern and 12 Mile. They are planning a "dramatic, exciting, ambitious" interconnecting plaza in what they call a key area of first impression.

Homeowners to the south agree the city area is unique but for different reasons. They vigorously oppose commercial encroachment into what they consider a quiet, serene, tree-rolling terrain, and artisanal bed ponds-a nesting place for wild life.

Deputy City Planner Joe Segal, who is in charge of planning business zoning on the 13 1/2 acre parcel as well as zoning for five acres of townhouses.

THE SOUTHFIELD PLANNING COMMITTEE tabled their recommendation Wednesday after architect Leonard Segal made an elaborate pitch for business zoning for the proposed project.
