

MANY BENCHES TO PROVIDE REST FOR FAIR PATRONS

To insure rest for patrons of the New York World's Fair 1939, benches seating a total of more than 50,000 persons at a time will be distributed over the 1216½-acre site of the gigantic Exposition. According to a recent statement by Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair Exposition, these benches will be shaded by many of the 10,000 fully mature trees which, one of the most arduous of all the Exposition's projects, were transplanted by a veritable army of workmen. These benches will be easily accessible to the 200,000 visitors expected to pass through the Fair turnstiles every "average" day. As sanctuaries for tired, if enthusiastic, patrons, most will provide vistas of fountains, cascades, floral patterns and other soothing elements of an elaborate landscaping program.

To obviate the weariness still further, three different forms of moderate-priced transportation over the site will be provided—tourist buses, trackless trains, and electric chairs. Parents, too, will be able to leave their little ones in the safety of "Children's World" before proceeding, unworried and free, to adult attractions.

The Fair, alone, has all but finished the construction of many two comfort stations. Similar facilities have also been erected in the buildings and exhibits of private, participating interests. Forty-six of the sixty-two will be reserved, alike, for men and for women. Each will contain thirty-five toilet fixtures. Most of these accommodations will be free.

Ten first aid stations, staffed by a veritable corps of physicians, surgeons and nearly 100 nurses, will dispense free service. While the Fair is to make personal safety its constant watchword, motor ambulances, complete resuscitation equipment, and ten wards (each containing from two to six beds) will meet any emergencies—even childbirth. In fact, no less than eighteen "World's Fair babies" are expected.

White Citizens Support African Medicine Men

JOHANNESBURG.—Efforts of the South African government to restrict the practice and numbers of medicine men and herbalists in Natal are meeting with obstacles. Whites who are authorities in Zulu matters, as well as the natives themselves, are pleading for the medicine men. These tribal "doctors" have a knowledge of herbs not possessed by trained medical men. One medicine man told a government board that he could cure lunatics with herbs and asked for a chance to make good his claim.

Because they have the confidence of the natives, the medicine men wield a mental influence often helpful in cures.

Many Male Birds Attend To Domestic Duties

The females of most wild creatures attend to the rearing of the young. With some birds the duty of attending to them falls entirely upon the mothers, the males taking no further interest in domestic duties after the eggs are laid. But there is one notable exception, for the male of the incubation of the eggs and rearing the young falls to the lot of the male red-necked phalarope, according to Oliver G. Pike, F. Z. S., in London Pitt-Rivers magazine.

The males of warblers and finches and most birds of prey do their share of feeding the young, and they take turns on the eggs. In the past the handsome mallard drake deserted his mate directly the nest was made, but in recent years there have been many instances of the males remaining with their mates to help look after the young.

In other branches of nature there are remarkable instances of the males looking after the whole of the domestic duties. In Chile, a creature known as Darwin's frog takes charge of the eggs directly they are laid by the female. It transfers them to a pouch in his gullet, a special cavity which appears to have been made for this purpose, and here the eggs remain until the frog appears. With most species the young go through several stages, appearing first as tadpoles, but with Darwin's frog the babies, when ready, hop out of their parent's mouth.

PROFITABLE CROP ROTATION LIES IN CAREFUL PLANNING

CHICAGO.—How to make crop rotation pay farmers more dividends in increased yields per acre and lowered production costs was explained by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The key to successful rotation is careful planning," a report says. "If crop rotation had more definite beginnings and endings, farmers generally would do more planning at the start of a three, four or six year cycle, and they would be more likely to take stock of the results."

"In most rotation programs starting this spring corn will be the basic crop, largely because of the amazing production records of 'hybrid' seed."

"In planning the rotation, the matter of fertilizer will be extremely important. Because of its high yield per acre, corn makes heavy demands on the plant food resources of the soil, particularly nitrogen."

"The most practical alternative to replenish the extra amounts of plant food removed from the soil is to use commercial fertilizer."

First Football Game

Of the first football game played in America, there is no record. There is, however, record of the first intercollegiate football game in this country. This was played between Rutgers and Princeton, at New Brunswick, N. J., November 18, 1869. Rutgers won 6 goals to Princeton's 4. A return match was asked for by Princeton and the second game was played on November 20, Princeton winning this time with a score of 5 to 0. Earliest American football rules were patterned after soccer.

Goals Liked Coffee

There are 146 references to goals in the Bible. Legend has it that the goal was the discoverer of the stimulating properties of coffee beans. An Arabian herder noticed one afternoon that the members of his flock were unusually playful after having nibbled at the berries of the coffee bush; the fellow investigated, being of an inquiring turn of mind; and thus coffee drinking began. Zoroaster had a kind word for the goat. So did that other able thinker, the Gautama Buddha. So, for that matter, did Confucius.

It was Kipling who quipped, "A woman is only a woman; but a good cigar is a smoke." With none of the fear and trembling that should attend an extension of that master's words, we would like to say that for the same price as a good smoke you can purchase a panoramic view of the life in this community.

How else but through the columns of The Enterprise will you obtain accurate information on such subjects as the City and Township government; the State and national government as they affect the local scene through the WPA, PWA and such agencies; the school system; social and fraternal affairs here, and last, but not of least importance, the values being offered by your local merchants? A cigar is only a good smoke, but The Enterprise is a carefully conducted trip behind scenes at Farmington.
