Provide More Time To Take Pre-Marital Exams

Marriage-bound couples hereafter will have 30 days instead of 15 in which to complete their medical examination requirements previous to applying for a marriage license, it has been announced by the Michigan Department of Health.

Act No. 112, P. A. of 1939, providing for this extension of time was signed last week by Governor Dickinson and becomes effective immediately.

The new law also corrects a provision of the 1937 act which worked a hardship on certain persons having so-called "Wasserman-fast" cases of syphilis which would not respond to treatment. Under the amended law, marriage is possible for persons who have syphilis in a non-communicable stage, providing there is no danger to the health of the marital partner or to the issue of such a marriage.

Certificates for this special dispensation will be granted by the State Commissioner of Health upon application by the examining physician. Special application forms for this purpose are now being prepared by the Michigan Department of Health. County clerks will accept the special dispensation certificate signed by the State Commissioner of Health in lieu of the regular medical examination certificate. The special certificates granted under the amended act are not public records.

PEACH FESTIVAL TO BE HELD SEPT. 2, 3, 4, AT ROMEO

The Ninth Annual Michigan Peach Festival will be held in Romeo on September second, third, and fourth of this year.

As in previous years, a reigning queen, maids of honor, and a queen's court, will be selected from candidates representing five counties—Lapeer, Genesee, St. Clair, Oakland, and Macomb.

Preliminary contests for community representatives will be held not later than August 11, county winners will be chosen August 18, and the final contest from which will emerge a 1939 queen and her court, will be held in Romeo August 25.

The festival includes band concerts, horse pulling contests, an impressive coronation ceremony, and three great parades on Labor Day, annually attracting thousands of visitors to the Romeo fruit belt.

Michigan fruits in general have received favorable national publicity through this festival, now embarking on its ninth consecutive year of operation. New plantings of peach orchards have greatly increased the peach acreage in the Romeo area, and this year growers state that conditions are favorable for a record peach yield of 200,000 to 300,000 bushels.

New Commissioner For Fruit Market

R. D. Krieger of Benton Harbor, for five seasons market master at the Benton Harbor Wholesale Fruit Market, has been named by Agricultural Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer, as assistant to Glenn W. Davis, director of the Bureau of Foods and Standards. Prior to becoming a market master, Krieger served as city inspector for Benton Harbor and this experience is expected to prove valuable to him in the direction of the inspection work of the department.

The new appointee is a life long resident of Berrien county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Krieger, who were among the original orchardists in Southwestern Michigan.

Lay Plans For Mooney Rally at Fair Grounds

Success for the huge rally for Tom Mooney to be held, Sunday afternoon, June 11, at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, was assured this week when one hundred and twenty delegates, representing seventy organizations, gathered at the Union Hall, 51 Sproat street, to plan for the celebration. The arrangements conference held under the auspices of the Mooney-Billings Committee laid plans for the Rally at which Tom Mooney, recently liberated California labor leader will be the main speaker.

Herbert Resner, Secretary of the San Francisco Mooney Defence Committee, was the main speaker of the conference, presenting the background of the Mooney case and stating that the long imprisoned labor hero is now engaged in a national tour for the freedom of his partner, Warren K. Billings, and for unity in the labor movement.

Madison First President To Dress in Long Trousers

James Madison was the first President of the United States who habitually dressed in long trousers while he was chief executive. Washington, the elder Adams and Jefferson wore knee breeches during their administrations. Trousers, or long pants, were adopted in France in 1789 by the supporters of the revolution. For that reason the revolutionists were known as "sansculottes," which literally means "without breeches," that is, without knee breeches worn by the royalists. Many Americans adopted long pants in token of their sympathy with the French revolution. Between 1790 and 1800 trousers gradually came into vogue among the common people in America, but it was not until 10 or 12 years later that they were substituted for breeches on dress occasions. Although the duke of Wellington is said to have worn trousers in England after the Peninsular campaign, Beau Brummel is usually credited with having popularized trousers in that country.

Makes a Living Out of Plaster

Jobless Family Finds Molding of Figurines Is Profitable Work.

OLMSTEAD FALLS, OHIO.—Father's unemployment was fortunate instead of tragic for the William Crowley family—they now have a thriving home industry which is profitable for all.

Crowley, temporarily without a job, decided to spend his time to some advantage and began experimenting with creating plaster figures. His studio was the family garage and his chief assistant, daughter Evelyn, who was convalescing from pneumonia. Eighteen-year-old Evelyn sketched the Crowley dog and other animals and her father followed the sketches in making his figurines.

Labor Is Divided.

Then the rest of the family joined forces.

"Here is the division of labor," Crowley explained.

"Evelyn makes the preliminary sketch, I do the plaster carving and molding. 15-year-old William Jr. is responsible for the casting, aided by Charles, who is 11, and Mrs. Crowley paints the figures. Eight-year-old Bob takes care of the jars and brushes. Our three dogs and three cats pose as models."

He said the family has perfected a durable composition for statues and a washable finish, but the formulas for both processes are secret.

"In less than a year in business we have sold more than 2,000 novelty art objects to shops in Cleveland and other cities, including Berea, Fairview, Ashtabula and Elyria. We have also sold some objects to Buffalo stores," Crowley said.

Comic Figures Made.

"The objects range from statues of Washington and Lincoln to comic cowboy figures.

"As for our factory, it has expanded until it includes the garage, furnace room and the summer kitchen."

He added that he is employed again, but he spends all his spare time working at home.

"Give up the business because I have a job again? No, I wouldn't think of doing that," he said.

"There are too many interesting things to find out about this line to give it up."

The District of Columbia

The tract of land known as the District of Columbia, which is coextensive in area with the city of Washington, was acquired by the federal government in 1789 from Maryland in pursuance of Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution, which provides: "Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding 10 miles square) as many, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of government of the United States . . ." Maryland, in 1788, and Virginia, in 1789, passed acts together to cede 10 miles square for the seat of government of the United States. But in 1846, the tract of land south of the Potomac ceded by Virginia was, upon petition of the inhabitants, receded by congress to the parent state.

Death Valley, Lowest Point

Death valley in California is 276 feet below sea level and is the lowest point on the continent. It is a barren, desert, alkaline strip of territory, about 50 miles long, and averages between 20 and 25 miles in breadth between the crests of the inclosing mountain ranges. The name was given it by the survivors of a party of 30 emigrants who lost their way there while traveling to the Pacific coast in the days of '49, and of whom 18 died in the sands after enduring great hardships for days.

Gambler at Cards Is Most Superstitious of Persons

There is no more superstitious person than the gambler at cards. Where skill is often at a discount and chance at a premium, the gambler seeks every means to attract to himself the fairies of fortune and to ward off the imps of ill-luck.

Should he drop a card to the floor all the cards will run against him; a cross-eyed player at the table will be the sole winner; he that lends money to a fellow player will win, but he that borrows will lose. To sing while playing cards is to sing away one's luck; to walk round one's seat and then sit on a handkerchief is to invite good fortune.

The gruesome superstition, widely held at Monte Carlo, that all who sit down to play immediately after some unfortunate loser has committed suicide will win, stretches back to heathen days, when every disaster was supposed to be followed by a compensating piece of good fortune.

The Nine of Diamonds is called the Curse of Scotland, and no gambler from north of the Tweed likes to find this ill-omened card in his hand. One explanation is that it got its name from the fact that the order for the massacre of Glencoe was signed by the earl of Stair, whose family shield bore nine lozenges resembling diamonds.

Song Birds, Game Birds Fear Enemy of Air, Old Jim Crow

Song birds, game birds and waterfowl fear a black enemy of the air—Jim Crow, the thief. No sportsman ever has spoken a good word for this bird. The farmer has no use for him. In fact, he doesn't seem to have a friend in the world.

But why all this murderous attack on old Jim Crow? Some persons believe he shouldn't be killed, for, after all, he is just one of Nature's "bad boys" trying to get along. He has at least one useful habit, destroying cutworms, white grubs and grasshoppers. But even the persons who plead his case have no respect for him. He has been caught in the act of robbing the nests of birds and waterfowl in the nesting season, standing by and watching for his chance to destroy when mother bird or duck leave for drink or food. Jim Crow and his flock have been accused of following the great flights of ducks on the return to the breeding grounds of Canada, taking an "inventory" of all nests made, and later putting on an act of destruction.

Jim Crow's fate is in the hands of a "jury" of thousands of men. Each holds a shotgun.

Most Southerly Large Glacier

Palisade glaceir, at the head of Big Pine creek, about 15 miles west of Big Pine, is California's largest and also the most southerly large glacier in the United States. Its highest elevation is 13,400 feet and is about three miles long by half as wide, with a drop from head to foot of 1,100 feet. Its background is a series of skyscraper peaks, including Mt. Palisade, elevation, 14,254 feet; Mt. Sill, 14,190; Agassiz Needle, 13,882, and Mt. Winchell, 13,749.

Nature's 'Limits'

Some of the biggest things in Nature include Everest, in the Himalayas, the highest mountain, 29,200 feet high. The longest river is the Amazon, in South America, 4,000 miles. The deepest waterfall is the Kaieteur, in British Guiana, 741 feet. The greatest desert is the Sahara, 3,500,000 square miles. The largest island, apart from Australia, is Greenland, 827,300 square miles. The largest ocean is the Pacific, 63,986,000 square miles.
