

Defending the oppressed people of the world would be noble, chivalric, gallant, romantic. But the cold, gray dawn of the morning after:

Workers are prohibited by law from paying any part of the employment compensation in Michigan.

Looks as if Great Britain is still willing to let the mad dogs a little if they will talk about being appeased.

A volume of The Epistles and Gospels as printed by Theophile Motteux in Detroit in 1812 was recently presented to the University of Michigan by Mr. William Van Dyke of Detroit.

Prints by Pets of Roman Days Found

Goat, Calf, Dogs and Fowl Leave Tracks on Tile.

LONDON—A goat, a calf, several dogs and a barnyard fowl are immortalized in exhibits at the new Verulamium museum, built by the Corporation of St. Albans and opened by King Hardegar.

They stepped on some unfired roof tiles fresh from a Roman workshop nearly 2,000 years ago, and left their footprints behind.

One large red tile 18 inches long tells an unmistakable story. At one end are the shallow pawmarks of a dog standing, and beside them, imbedded in the clay, a big flat pebble which must have scored a hit.

"We had to bring Italian workmen to lift them intact from their position underground," explained the curator, Philip Corder.

The process, known only in Italy, included drying the mosses out for weeks with stoves, covering them with slabs of material and then canvases, and chipping away the cement underneath.

Then they were rolled up like carpets and stored in new canvas without disturbing, even by the fraction of an inch, the position of a single tessera.

The collection of household objects is remarkable. There are tumbler locks with keys of all sizes, lamp chimneys, jugs, dishes, cups, pens and writing tablets, pins and needles, both of bone and bronze, all sorts of counters for games, bits of wicker-pane domestic nails, a roll of wire, domestic goods of pineclay and anti-slip bathroom molding.

Zeal ceases to be a virtue when it is misguided and deprives others of their natural rights.

Take Gospel to Tribes by Plane

Toledo Minister Is Named To Equal Post in New Guinea

TOLEDO, OHO.—The Rev. D. S. Young, Toledo flying pastor, is leaving for Dutch New Guinea today as he will fly to hitherto inaccessible regions in what he believes one of the first attempts of Protestant missions to use aircraft for teaching the Gospel.

"At present because of the rapids in the rivers of Borneo it takes missionaries many days by dugout native canoes to make trips which I believe I can accomplish by plane in two hours," the minister said.

Young resigned as pastor of the Toledo Gospel Chapel here, following his appointment as airplane missionary to New Guinea for the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

His appointment represents realization of a 10-year dream. "Ten years ago," he said, "I first thought of the idea of carrying the Word of God to the natives in distant parts by means of the airplane. Believes Obstacles Overcome.

"In many parts of the world it has been virtually impossible in the past to reach natives without lengthy and perilous voyages through the jungle. But the airplane solves the problem."

Young, in preparation for the carrying out of his idea, read all he could find on aviation. "Some of my congregation thought it a bit strange, I will admit, having a minister who studied aviation in his spare time. But I knew what I wanted, so I stuck to it."

Three years ago the pastor had consulted his preparatory studies, and decided it was time to begin flying. "The first flight was a great thrill, and so my solo flight," Young said. "Since my solo I have been concentrating on becoming sufficiently expert in navigation and piloting to meet any emergency which may arise."

Young will be chief pilot and will transport missionaries and supplies from the headquarters of the mission at Macassar, Celebes island. Tribes Long Isolated.

Working with him will be Dr. R. A. Jaffrey, chairman of the field missionary work in that section. Most of the work will be with tribes whose first sight of a white man was in the fall of 1937.

"We are curious to know how the natives, who are superstitious, will react when they first see the plane," Young said.

The plane, built at Wichita, Kan., will be shipped to Macassar. It is equipped with ambulance and first aid supplies and has two-way radio communication.

The flying pastor will take his family with him to Macassar. His wife and four children, Paul, eight; Howard, four; and Marilyn, 18 months; "all are anticipating eagerly the trip," according to Young.

Legerdemain May Open College Door for Youth

CLEVELAND.—Sixteen-year-old Willard Sprieder, one of the country's youngest professional magicians, hopes by making things disappear through magic for several years.

"I have been earning money through magic for several years," he said; "ever since a friend of mine in Hammond, Ind., showed me a few elementary tricks. I'm sure it will be easy to work my way through college that way."

Sprieder first became interested in legerdemain in 1930—when he was seven. He has accumulated $500 worth of equipment and developed over two tracts to old tricks.

PARALLEL PARKING LAW RUNS INTO DIFFICULTIES

Enforcement of the new parallel parking law scheduled to become effective September 22 will be impossible in certain cases it was decided this week.

This conclusion was arrived at by State Police Commissioner Oscar C. Olander and State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Laning with H. Olson, secretary of the Michigan Municipal League. The two commissioners have jurisdiction over the state highway system on which the law would be effective. The law specifically provides that cars on trunkline streets must be parked with right wheels parallel to and not more than 12 inches from curbs.

Way Commissioner Murray D. Laning with H. Olson, secretary of the Michigan Municipal League.

The two commissioners have jurisdiction over the state highway system on which the law would be effective. The law specifically provides that cars on trunkline streets must be parked with right wheels parallel to and not more than 12 inches from curbs.

Olson pointed out instances in which enforcement was precluded by physical difficulties.

Olander and Van Wagener said they would give each case separate consideration. The law does not provide for the exercise of any discretion in its application by the two commissioners.

EASY CANNING. Free Demonstration! The afternoon of September 7 on our Sales Floor in Pontiac you may see a free demonstration of Owen Canning—the effortless, easy canning method. You will enjoy seeing the fine results so easily obtained. Old fashioned canning really was a mess, wasn't it? A hot steamy kitchen—spills, and boil overs—steam everywhere. Even some so-called modern ranges due to uneven heat, ups and downs of temperature—caused boil overs with oven canning. Only Modern Gas Cookery, with its even heat, gives the ideal conditions for oven canning. With the Modern Gas Range oven canning is easy, steam free, effortless, cool, and simple. With less hours in the kitchen, you are assured of perfect results. Come in and see the actual demonstration. 23612 FARMINGTON ROAD PHONE 304

Hen Pheasant's Brood Are Plymouth Rocks. YAKIMA WASH.—It comes once in a while that a hen pheasant will hatch a brood of chickens that are as good as any other. But it's unusual when a hen pheasant reverses the operation. Workers found such a family strutting around on a ranch near Yakima, Wash., last week. The chicks were Plymouth Rocks. The pheasant apparently had robbed the nest from the hen that laid the eggs.
