

LOSEY CORNERS

James Ernest Aldrich, born in 1876, died Saturday, May 4, at the age of 64, the oldest of eleven children. Death came instantly while Mr. Aldrich was seated in an easy chair in his home taking to his wife. He had been in poor health for the past few months, but able to work up his yard. He leaves his wife, Cora, and five daughters, Vina, Avis, Gladys, Alice and Irene, and one son, Claude. Also surviving are, five sisters, Evaline, and Carrie, of Traverse City, and Lottie, Florence, and Elsie, of River Rouge, and five brothers, Frank, Henry, Ray, Eugene, who is on the police force in Saginaw, and Lloyd. The remaining brothers and sisters were born in Tuscola County, later moving in or near Detroit. James, the oldest of this fine old-fashioned family, is the first to be called upon here the death of his parents which occurred some years ago. Burial took place in Memorial Park cemetery of 5 Mile Road.

Carl Velt, born 55 years ago May 5, died May 7th; in his home on Pickford. Besides his wife, he leaves three sons, Carl, Andrew, and Frank, and two sisters, in Battle Creek. Mr. Velt brought his family from Germany about two years after the World War, was over. They have lived in the community for the past several years and have made many friends. His health failed following an attack of malarial fever, from which he never fully recovered. The funeral was from Heene Funeral Home May 10, with services in Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Tamm of Gulfport, Florida, are visiting Mrs. Robert Fredericks of 18891 Maplewood. They will remain to settle business affairs and at the close of school will return with their two daughters, Edna and Leona, to Florida, where they have purchased property.

Mr. Yeoman entertained some of his neighbors with a pre-view of pictures to be used in the school. They featured life in the Navy and were of considerable interest.

Mr. Mansfield will go with a group of Boy Scouts to Briggs Stadium Wednesday, to see the game between the Tigers and Washington.

AT THE REDFORD THEATER

Telling the story of one period in the life of the real Abraham Lincoln as it never has been told before, the long-awaited screen version of Robert E. Sherwood's "Hollow Victory Play," "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois" will be shown at the Redford Theater beginning Friday. Raymond Massey, star of the stage play, is seen in the title role.

The picture is said to adhere closely to the stage original which had sensational success on Broadway, prior to its road tour of the country. It thus takes rank as one of the most important pictures ever made, and as a brilliant and searching drama of the real Lincoln during his formative years.

The tale opens with Lincoln's arrival as a gangling youth of twenty-one in the sparsely settled wilds of Illinois, at that time but recently admitted to statehood. How he becomes a storekeeper and a postmaster, his shy romance with Ann Rutledge, her tragic death in the middle of Lincoln's campaign for the state legislature, and the beginning of his legal and political career, comprise the first half of the absorbing film.

The ensuing sequences deal with his meeting with Mary Todd, his rivalry with Stephen A. Douglas for her hand, his much-disputed jilting of the girl, their subsequent marriage, and the various steps that led to his departure for the White House, to face the coming of the Civil War.

Told in vivid, compelling fashion, these scenes reveal for the first time on the screen the odd and contradictory nature of Lincoln himself, his hesitance and lack of confidence in his own judgment, his flaming sense of justice. Because of these unusual aspects of the story's central figure, and of the painstaking research put into his task by Robert E. Sherwood, the noted dramatist who wrote both the original play and the screen version, picturegoers are promised a unique dramatic treat, embodying an illuminating close-up portrait of America's greatest president.

WEST POINT PARK

Rev. Sandcock is preaching at each service and will be with us for three more Sundays. Rev. Evangeline Farnum will be singing next Sunday at both services. Come and you will come again.

Mrs. Margaret Martin was the week end guest of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Borland of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Zwahlen were guests Saturday evening of Captain and Mrs. O. L. Duncan of Detroit.

Mrs. Lucian Gilbert was the guest Monday of her mother, Mrs. Charles Pankov of Detroit.

The work of the West Point Park Bible church is very successful. The attendance during the past week has been very good. Next Sunday morning a special service will be held for the dedication of children, if your child has not been dedicated to God, call Rev. Sandcock.

On account of illness in the Willoughby home, the Wonder Book Club, which was scheduled to hold a special service in the honor of their mothers in the Willoughby basement, met instead at the home of Russell Ault. Forty persons, young and old, were in attendance. Special features on the program were welcoming verses by June May Tallman, guitar solos by June Vance and special vocal numbers rendered together by officers of the club. Refreshments provided by the young folks were served at the close. The young men had provided a plentiful supply of delicious fruit punch and the young ladies had vied with each other in baking cake for the occasion. One beautifully decorated "mother's cake", concocted together by June Vance and Betty Tallman, was judged especially worthy of mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Marquette Showm of Detroit were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Gilbert.

Leroy Willoughby, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willoughby, of Mayfield avenue, was critically ill the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Thomas Stevin and son Donald, Mrs. Ruth Phillips and daughter Donna Jean, and Thelma Lewis, all of Uniontown, Ohio, arrived in West Point Park Friday and spent a few days visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ault and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Graham visited friends, in Northville, Saturday evening.

Milton Dinsmore and family, of near Northville called on friends in West Point Park Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson entertained Leo Woods and family, of near Inkster, and Mr. Woods' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woods of Ohio, Thursday evening.

HOLLAND TULIP FESTIVAL OPENS SATURDAY, MAY 18

On the calendar of springtime, there is perhaps no more strikingly colorful event than the eighth-day celebration the Dutchmen annually hold at tulip blooming, time at Holland, Michigan.

Tulip time officially opens Saturday, May 18, with a ceremony in which the Dutch burghers actually scrub the main street of the town. They volunteer by hundreds in response to the call of the Burgo-master and Gemeenteraad (city council). The scrubbers dress as did their forefathers from the shorts of the Zolder Zee, "klompen" and all.

A program innovation this year will be Black and White Day on Thursday, May 23, which will be sponsored by the National Holland Friesland Association. There will be a reproduction of a Dutch cattle market on the down-town streets of the city, and a 4-H Club judging contest. First prize for this contest will be a registered heifer calf, donated by the Kalamazoo State Hospital, and will be presented to the winner by Agricultural Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer.

The tulip blooms are located on bulb farms just outside the town and along an eight mile circuit of city streets. Initiated twelve years ago by the suggestion of a high school botany teacher, Lila Tulip Time festival now offers three million tulips and three thousand costumed and wooden-shod Hollanders as its attraction.
