Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beals Leave Thursday for India

On Thursday, June 6, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beals of 23231 Prospect avenue, will take leave of friends in Farmington to set out on a trip which will take them to the other side of the world.

With India as their destination the Beals will go from Farmington to Seattle, from which city they are to begin the long voyage across the Pacific.

Any plans which Mr. and Mrs. Beals may have had about going to India from the other way—that is across the Atlantic—were definitely cancelled by the war.

In order to get to India by this route they would have to pass through the straits of Gibraltar and the Mediterranean Sea, and run the risk of being torpedoed by one of the belligerent countries.

This route became definitely out of the question.

Route Called Safe Although world travel of any sort at the present time seems dangerous to many Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Beals were assured by officials of the state department that the Pacific route would be reasonably safe.

Reaching Seattle they will embark Sunday, June 9, on the Japanese steamer "Hibiscus." The ship will head directly for Japan, on a course that will pass considerably north of Hawaii. From Japan they will proceed south through the China Sea to Singapore, and then back again until they reach Colombo, Ceylon. Here they will visit a sister of Mr. Beals, who makes her home in Colombo.

Visit Parents After spending a few days here, the Beals will go to Wal, India, a small village near Bombay. It is in Wal that Mr. Beals' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lester Beals live, where Dr. Beals, a medical missionary, ministers to the natives. Mr. Beals has been here for some time since he left India at high school age to come to the United States.

The Beals will have 21 days in which to visit Mr. Beals' sister and parents. On the return trip they will take the same route, which they went, and expect to be back home by late summer.

At a meeting Thursday evening of the executive board of the Farmington P.T.A. it was decided that the topic for the 1940-41 discussion will be "Education in a Democracy."

The millage on the Farmington school indebtedness and operating costs will be reduced by one and a half mills for the coming year.

The school indebtedness tax will be lowered from 12½ mills to 12, and the assessments for operation will be reduced from 8½ mills to 7½.

The reductions were based on an estimated budget under which the school will operate next year. The remaining 77 per cent comes from state aid, tuition, federal and state reimbursements and primary interest funds.

The Budget For general control, $6,605. Instructional costs, $40,875. Of this amount $37,775 will be paid for salaries of elementary and high school teachers, library, instruction and instructional supplies.

Auxiliary facilities such as transportation, recreation, and health service, $2,600.

Operation, including salaries, light and power, fuel, telephone, and janitor supplies, $4,300.

Fixed charges, insurance, etc., $500.00.

Text books, (sold to students), $1,600.

Capital outlay, new equipment, (appropriations to all departments), $2,500.
