Snake Charmers Use Most Dangerous Snakes

There is in Burma, at a little place called Poppa, a strange family of snake charmers. They scorn all ordinary snakes and use only the fiercest and most dangerous snake in the world, the Hamadryad, or King cobra. This snake is probably the only snake in the world which does not fear man. It attacks on sight and owing to its great size and strength, cannot easily be killed or avoided. Its bite, like that of all the cobras, is certain death; and yet this intrepid band of snake charmers seem to remove the fangs or poison bags from their charges.

A modern Poppa snake charmer, before he goes on a hunting expedition has to propitiate the Nats (Gods) and solemnly promise that the captured snake will be freed after six, nine or 12 months, as the case may be.

When a snake hunt is on, the leader goes to a place where snakes abound, taking with him four or five men. They search for the most suitable snake for their purpose, and on finding such, they all surround it, the leader being opposite the head. If by chance the leader is bitten, he will probably live, for he possesses powerful antidotes against snake poison.

Scientific Aids Haystacks with chimneys and mechanical vegetable "tactors" were exhibited to more than 1,000 western Washington farmers attending the second annual field day of the western Washington experiment station in Puyallup, Wash.

The farmers were studying horticultural experiments, poultry and farm animal feeding practices, and exhibits of grass plots, berry field and dairy herds and barns.
