A headpiece of fresh blue cornflowers, stephanotis and fern held her finger-tip silk illusion veil, and she carried a mixed natural bouquet of cornflowers, stephanotis, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Her attendants were her cousin, Diane Hayes, as maid of honor, and another cousin, Janet Schad, and Cathy Bryl, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. Her five-year-

A dinner dance reception for 300 in the Knights of Columbus hall in Garden City followed the rites. Decorating the hall were topiary trees in blue tulle and white baby's breath, hanging baskets of fresh flowers, white doves and clusters of white balloons.
