NOVEL BIRTH

ANNOUNCEMENT

OF INTEREST

Of interest to Farmington residents is the following story, which appeared in a Washington, D. C. newspaper. Mrs. Eagle will be remembered as Ruth Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaw. The story follows:

"Here is the first case where it over was necessary to say that the father, mother and neighbors are doing well."

"The Post is happy to repeat, 'It's a boy, 8 lbs.'"

"The father, Reed C. Eagle, 25, of 225 Meadow Lane, Falls Church, Va., scooped the town, however, so far as his own and much-interested neighborhood was concerned."

"At exactly 9:45 o'clock Friday night when the doctor came down and told the father that an 8-pound boy was receiving a tag with his name on it upstairs, Eagle hurried to his home across the river, quickly to ransack the house for an old piece of plywood and a bucket of paint and a brush."

"The handiwork showed his excitement as much as a tranquil landscape would show the composure and severity of its painter. In Eagle's work the lettering dripped and his haste to get back to the hospital is shown in his abbreviation of the word 'pounds' one of any birth's most important pieces of statistical information."

"Eagle rushed the stick to the front yard and stuck it into the grass. The neighbors didn't see it in the dark, but yesterday morning friends of the family—who had been anxious and so nice—and passersby generally, knew that a baby worth talking about was born and happy."

"The couple moved to Falls Church two years ago from Detroit. 'Everyone had been so nice to us, we wanted them to know about it at once.' Eagle, salesman for an elevator company here, said yesterday."

"The baby was named for him."

"It was his first, of course."

The article was accompanied by a picture of Mr. Eagle, and also one of Mrs. Roy Shaw standing by the announcement Eagle placed in his front yard."

TROUT PLANTED

Introduction of northern pike to 60-acre Weber lake in Alger county to relieve the stunted condition of the lake's crowded perch population is recommended by the conservation department's institute for fisheries research, after a brief survey. The institute suggests, however, that the planting be deferred until further tests confirm the finding that the lake's waters are too warm for trout.
