Woodland Fire Has Beneficial Results

Fire that swept Barry county woodlands in 1939 had consider able value in spite of the damage, in the opinion of Arnold Haugen, in the opinion of Arnold Haugen, conservation department representative directing the work on the Barry county Pittman-Robertson wildlife area.

Sprouting dogwood, sassafras, aspen, hickory and oak that has sprutz up in dense thickets over the area makes a big improvement over the previous stand of large trees, so far as wildlife of the district is concerned, Haugen says.
