RECONSIDER OLD. AU TRAIN RIVER

The proposed Au Train, canal, first mentioned more than 80 years ago as a war-time protective means ago as a war-time protective means ago as a war-time protective means as a possible originary of the Soo locks, again to being considered as a possible national defense move, and the River and Harbor improvement association is reported gathering information on the project. Advocates of the plan propose connecting Lake Superior with Lake Michigan by way of the intural basin formed by the Au Train river. Trout lake, Whitefish river and Little Bay de Noc, a distaince of about 40 miles. Such a route could be used in the event that the could be used in the event that the Soo locks were damaged, and would considerably shorten the iron ore haul from Lake Superior ports to steel mills of Gary, Ham-mond and East Chicago. Geologists believe that during into stages of glaciation, when the eastern half of the Lake Superior basin was ice covered, the outlet of Lake Superior was through this channel.

According to records of the conservation department's geological survey, the Au Train canal was first considered in the 1850s, when it was realized that fron ore shipments would be vulnerable to British action at the American Soo locks, the first of which was completed in 1855.

Grouse From Wisconsin Released in Michigan

A shipment of 18 sharptalled grouse, the first of 40 birds to be received from Wisconsin, were released ear Traverse City by Donald Douglass, conservation department ornithologist, and David Snyder, game area manager working out of Baldwin.

The newly stocked birds were supplied by the Sandhill game farm near Babcock, Wisconsin A year ago about 50 shiptallis were released at Thompsbuville, 30 miles from the site of the present

In the 7 years since the Pontlac association opened for business it has loaned its members $1,926$.

(0) While loans have been sought generally for current expenses, a substantial part has been for capital investment, such as real estate improvements, purchase of machinery, and breeding stock.

Fred J. Beckman, secretary-treasurer of the Portitac PCA, who has returned from 2 days spent attending a conference at Owosso, was enthusiastic over the program.

spent attending a conterence at Owesso, was enhusiastic over the program.
"At conterences of this kind in former years the directors have devoted their time to discussion of credit policies, the use of certain forms, and various procedures but this year we took up many phases of the associations' contact with people and how to make triends for the association," he said. "I wouldn't say it was a more valunable program than, the others, but I think it opened our eyes to a lot of things that we may have overlooked. When you come to think of it, one of the best assets a cooperative can have is the own members. That's what we discussed."

Own the schedule of directors' conferences has been completed it is planned to hold similar sessions for the employees of production credit associations throughout the 7th Farm Credit district.
