

Couple On World Tour Bride Carries Heather, Heirloom Area Residents To Help At Old World Market

Newly-married Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newberry Lord are traveling around the world and visiting 15 countries following their Oct. 2 afternoon wedding in Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in Farmington.

Mrs. Lord is the former Sheila Stegbauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stegbauer of Cortland Avenue, Farmington. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Tobey Hansen of Grosse Pointe Farms and the late John Norton Lord.

Msgr. Clement Kern officiated.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory silk gown by Christoff of Galina, fashioned with a high, scalloped neckline of re-embroidered alencon lace and a chapel train trimmed in the same lace. Her mantilla veil designed by Priscilla of Boston also had alencon lace appliques.

Jean Ryzak of Detroit was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Denise M. Stegbauer of Farmington, sister-in-law of the bride; Carol Pruett of Grosse Pointe Farms; Candace Coleman of Detroit, cousin of the bride; Edith Lord of Grosse Pointe, the bridegroom's sister and Susan Sweeney of Southfield.

Mary T. Ellis, also a cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. All wore pale pink and green moire ankle-length gowns by Priscilla, fashioned with scooped necklines edged in champagne lace. They carried colonial bouquets of tiny pink roses and baby's breath.

GEORGE PRUETT of Grosse Pointe was best man. The ushers were David R. Stegbauer, Richard J.

Stegbauer and James F. Stegbauer, all of Farmington and brothers of the bride, and David H. Lord of Syracuse and Richard S. Lord of Boston, brothers of the bridegroom. Other ushers were Henry B. Joy III, of Grosse Pointe, the bridegroom's cousin; James F. Clark of Dearborn, Ralph McElveney Jr. of New York, George Black III of Metamora, Patrick Duffy of Grosse Pointe and Hall T. Sowday of Detroit.

MRS. STEGBAUER wore a green silk coat and dress ensemble with autumn haze mink trim, and the bridegroom's mother was in yellow lame. The reception for 420 guests was held in the Meadowbrook Country Club.

The bridegroom, named a few years ago by Cosmopolitan and Town and Country magazines as one of the country's 50 most eligible bachelors, is the grandson of Mrs. and Mrs. John Stoughton Newberry, Detroit Symphony Orchestra benefactors. He has been a member of the WWJ-TV news staff and is a graduate of Princeton University.

The new Mrs. Stegbauer graduated from Our Lady of Sorrows High School and Oakland University. Her father is president of a suburban tool and die company.

Cynthia Elaine Beesley tucked a sprig of heather from Scotland into her bridal bouquet and carried a family heirloom lace handkerchief when she became the bride of Roger Earl Armstrong Aug. 28.

The nuptial vows were spoken in the St. John's Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, with Dr. L. J. Peterson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beesley of Inkster Road, Farmington, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Armstrong of Rensselaer Avenue, Livonia.

MRS. ARMSTRONG
(Cynthia Beesley)

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown with tiers of white chantilly lace flowing into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil fell from a seed pearl crown.

The handkerchief she carried with her round bouquets of white roses, daisies, mums and baby's breath had been given to her mother by her great-grandmother.

Karen Stevens of Detroit, as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow chiffon over yellow silk organza and matching veil head piece and carried a basket of white daisies and yellow and white mums.

Karen Beesley, sister of the bride, and Carol Seibert of Detroit, the bridesmaids, wore similar gowns in turquoise.

Flower girl Jill Iceberg of Berkeley, the bride's cousin, wore a yellow chiffon over silk organza dress made by the bride. Her brothers, Jeffery and John, were ring bearer and acolyte.

FRED NEIL was best man.

The groomsmen were Terry and Gale Armstrong, brothers of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Raymond Wehner, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, and Lynn Beesley, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Beesley's dress, made by her daughter, Karen, was lime green lace over deeper green silk organza. Mrs. Armstrong wore a light blue dress with a long lace vest.

The couple greeted 200 guests at a reception in the Northwest Sportsman Club in Southfield before leaving on a Pocono Mountains honeymoon. They will live in Southfield.

The new Mrs. Armstrong is a 1969 graduate of North Farmington High School and graduated in May from Schoolcraft Community College. Her husband graduated from Clarensville High School in 1967 and served two years in the U.S. Army. He plans to attend Wayne State University.

Several northwest area residents are busy these days with plans for the Old World Market to be held Oct. 7 to 10 in the International Institute, 111 E. Kirby at John R, Detroit.

Dr. Shek C. Chen of Farmington is working on the Chinese booth, while Mrs. Mary Kim Joh of Livonia is in charge of the Korean food booth.

Two Livonians, Lydia Maschio and Eero Keranen are on the entertainment committee. Miss Maschio is an Italian opera singer and Keranen is director of the Finlandia Male Chorus. Susan Frontczak of Farmington will present a craft display of Czech wire work.

In all, 15 nationally booths will offer authentic crafts and products. Food service for luncheon, dinner and snacks will be provided by 10 nationalities.

THERE WILL also be demonstrations by artists, folk and classical music and dance exhibitions and folk dancing in the streets.

New this year to the market's entertainment stage in the Hall of Nations will be classical Japanese dancer Eno Evert, Spanish flamenco dancer Mrs. Maria Duran, Venezuelan folk singers, Maria, Elsa and Maritza Hernandez, Irish dancer Maureen Lobsinger, the Clifford Pears Dancers and Robert Zajak, who sings German leder. Elizabethan folk songs and recorder music will be featured by a group headed by Mrs. William Thornton.

The Rhodians, a Greek ensemble which was very popular last year, will provide music for folk dancing Friday evening.

HOURS OF THE festival are from noon to 10 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and from noon until 9 p.m. on Sunday. The block of Kirby from Woodward to John R. will be closed to traffic between 5:30 and 10:30 p.m. the four days of the market.

"Working together to preserve our nation's heritage of many cultures is what a lot of our work at the institute is all about," says Norman M. Pink, chairman of the market committee. "We make a big point of having everything thoroughly authentic."

Other than the United Foundation operating funds, the market is a major source of income for the institute. Each nationally group that participates is also enabled to provide funds for scholarships and specialized family services.

Williamsons Wed In Antioch

Pamela Sue Foreman became the bride of Robert Chalmers-Williamson in an evening ceremony Saturday, Oct. 2, in Antioch Lutheran Church in Farmington.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Foreman of Colony Circle, Farmington. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Williamson of Paddock Road, Farmington, are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Carl Kaltreider officiated for the double ring ceremony, and the bride was given in marriage by her mother and father.

THE BRIDE'S gown was silk organza trimmed with French lace, and a lace headpiece held her fingertip veil. Her flowers were white carnations and light pink sweetheart roses.

Jan Altenberg of Farmington was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Sheri Mills of Toledo, Denise Muehlbrad of Galion, Ohio, and Pat Williamson of Farmington. Amy Muehlbrad was flower girl.

ASSISTING the bridegroom were Doug Williamson of Farmington as best man and Gary Foreman, Bruce McFaul and Rob Owens, all of Farmington, as ushers.

The couple greeted guests at a reception in the Farmington VFW Hall before leaving for a Cape Cod honeymoon.

They will live in the Drakeshire Apartments in Farmington.

Both are graduates of North Farmington High School. The new Mrs. Williamson is employed as an engineering clerk by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Her husband attended Oakland Community College and is working in the service department of Meyer Jewelry Co.
