

Married Men's Pet Peeve

Is Wife's Coffee Making

Take research folks with time on their hands and there is no telling what they will stir around and dig up for you. Here comes the report of the Hooper-Holmes Bureau, national survey people, concerning married men's pet peeves.

The married men of 101 cities were asked to list the items of the little woman's cooking in the order of their disapproval, displeasure or disdain.

Now what do you think was the chief criminal—military biscuits? No, not that, please. Well, quite a few. Ah, so it was "eggs never cooked just right." Yes, a good many voted against the eggs, girls. But beyond that and "soggy French fried" and "the steak she always blames on the butcher," stalks the worst offender of all, the big, bad wolf of the kitchen, cooking meat No. 1.

It's the coffee, ladies, that gets your menfolk down. So they say, as one oldtimer puts it. "The things I haven't time for coffee at home in the morning. Well, I've been getting mine downtown for years." Or according to a five-year husband, "She's a honey, but I'm a pup to put up with her coffee."

But the cruelest thrust of all comes from a newlywed who callously reported, "Our honeymoon was over when I first tasted that she calls coffee."

A word to the wives is sufficient. Get coffee conscious! There is no deep dark secret about making good coffee, but there are a few essential rules which must be followed if your brew is to be of the "never fail" variety. Here they are. Keep them handy until you memorize them:

Don't skimp on the coffee. Tastes differ, but few people like the milk-soap variety. A good general rule is to use one generously heaped tablespoon of coffee to one cup of water.

Keep your coffee making utensils scrupulously clean.

Use freshly boiled water.

Never allow coffee really to boil, or to percolate too long.

Make coffee immediately before serving, if possible. It is absolutely necessary to make it before removing grounds as soon as made.

Two Detroit Labor Leaders Endorse Seaway Project

position of labor on this project might have paid attention. The leaders follow:

"Dear Sir: The St. Lawrence seaway project which is being considered by your committee at the present time is of vital interest to the public, and particularly to labor, and should be of vital interest to the National Government from a defense angle at this time.

"We realize that powerful lobbies of the railroads and seaboard States may be giving you a wrongly colored picture of the situation.

"The most natural shipbuilding territory in the world is certainly not on the seaboard, but across several hundred miles of territory of the Great Lakes in a position naturally defended from all enemies of the country.

"Crucially a great portion of the United States will be benefited by inland freight rates, caused by this inland seaway.

"For labor of this territory this development coupled with the present industrial areas of Michigan and close to the natural facilities needed in the manufacture, means the greatest and most economical industrial area of all time.

"We solicit your most earnest effort to give to the people of Michigan the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

"Respectfully yours,
TRACY M. DOLL, President"

"We desire to place before your honorable committee the position of the Federation of Labor in Detroit in support of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway and power project. This most desirable development has already been too long delayed.

"The section of our Nation, contiguous to the Great Lakes district is one of the best industrially developed sections of the country. Its value to the Nation in times of emergency is now demonstrated by the fact that the Government has turned to the Great Lakes district for the natural arsenal.

"An underlying expansion and development of this section of the United States definitely requires that it be made accessible to ocean-going boats.

"Safely the selfish opposition of the railroads and eastern manufacturers cannot be permitted to continue to deprive the people of this country of the benefits that can come from the development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway.

"The ability of science to harness water power and make it the servant of man relieves the human family of the dangerous and dangerous work in taking food from the bowels of the earth. The potential water power development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway will be a great contributing factor to lightening the load from the backs of those who are now employed in drudgery and danger, and we might add, at sub-normal wages.

"The Great Lakes district will need the necessary to its development to keep its people employed and the shipbuilding and manufacturing to be developed here after the war will provide work opportunities for men who otherwise will be thrown out of the Government for support.

"We therefore urge you and your associates on the House Rivers and Harbors Committee to report this project immediately.

"Very truly yours,
DETROIT AND WAYNE COUNTY FEDERATION OF LABOR
FRANK X. MARTEL, President"

The Committee on Rivers and Harbors, by a vote of 17 to 8, included authorization for the construction of the seaway in the current rivers and harbors bill.
