Continuing the attempt to harness all possible factories or the national effort, the Contract Distribution Division certified the entire household washer and ironer industry to the War Department for special dreatment in the awarding of defense contracts. It was the first industry-wide action of its kind. The Evansville, ind., community, where 3,000 are unemployed because of material shortness, was recommended for the same consideration.

The Labor Division established a new and speeder system to report

Nation-Wide Check of Aluminum Foundries

As part of the campaign to see that available critical materials are used in accordance with the priority rules set up to direct them into essential production, the Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division began a Nation-wide check-up on aluminum foundries. The report will be passed on to the OPM Prioritles Division for any necessary action.

Other priority action placed on iron and steel scrap under full priority control to avert shutdowns in steel mills; added 12 claques of health supplies to those for which manufacturers may use for which materials in getting materials; and extended a regulation under which makers of molded radio cabinets may use some syntetic resinous molding powder.
