ONE IN A MILLION

In most of Michigan's southern counties, where corn is raised in abundance, hogs produce an important share of agricultural income. There are nearly a million pigs fattening on Michigan farms, and they will bring farmers upwards of $10,000,000 this year.

In the telephone, the successful hog raiser has an efficient, modern helper. He uses it regularly to help turn surplus grain into profitable pork, hams, and bacon and lard. He orders feed and keeps informed as to the trend of livestock prices by telephone. The same swift communication system directs the movement of pork-products from packing house to meat market to home refrigerator. A two-minute call to the store will bring you fresh country sausage or crisp bacon for tomorrow's breakfast!
