

If the Shoe Fits

By BERNICE ZIVOV

How do you properly care for shoes?

Neglected shoes can mar the best of good grooming. Not only is it important to keep shoes in shape for the sake of beauty and fashion, but for health as well.

Here are some easy-to-keep rules which will prolong the life of your shoes:

1. Always use shoe trees. They protect the shape of the shoes and keep them fitting well.
2. Give each pair of shoes at least 48 hours rest between wearings to give them a chance to dry thoroughly.
3. Avoid getting leather shoes wet. Water dissolves the natural lubricating oils in the leather which then seeps out during walking. Leather fibres quickly scuff and wear away once the natural oils are lost.
4. If shoes get wet, wipe them carefully with a dry cloth. Then stuff them with paper toweling to dry the inside. Dry them only at room temperature.
