

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

On Thursday of this week the Baptist Women's Union held its regular meeting at the church, with Mrs. Leon Bury leading the devotional services and Mrs. Schlegel in charge of the day's program. The theme of the meeting was "Cross of Love."

The closing program and exhibition of the Community Vacation Bible School will be held on Friday, June 26, at 7:45 p. m. in the church. The pupils will give a demonstration of things learned during the seasons, and an exhibition of handwork. The general public is welcome, with a special invitation extended to parents of children who attended the school.

Buy War Bonds Every Pay Day
Let's Double Our Quota

Scoop!
Soap and Water
COTTONS

Cotton DRESSES $1.69-$2.98
Sizes 12 to 16—20 to 46
Womens SLACK SUITS 59c to $5.00
Sizes 12 to 44
Bathing Suits Sun Suits

Fred L. Cook & Co. Fred L. Cook
Phono 10 Farmington Adolph Nackler

SPECIAL

White FLANNELS 50c
Ladies Plain 2-PIECE SUIT 95c
(cash and carry)

FARMINGTON CLEANERS
—Phone 329—

REDFORD THEATRE
Gd. River & Lahser
FRI., SAT., SUN., MON.

THE COMEDY OF THE YEAR!
Tracy-Hepburn
A GEORGE STEVENS Production
WOMAN OF THE YEAR
RAY KAMLER - REGINALD OWEN
MAYNARD DUNN - MARY HAYES
Original Screen Play by Ring Lardner, Jr. and Michael Kazan
Directed by George Stevens
Produced by Joseph L. Mankiewicz

You're in the Army Now
JANE WYMAN
PHIL SILVERS
A WARNER BROS. HIT
with Matty Malneck & His Orchestra • Directed by LEWIS SEILER
Original Screen Play by Paul Green and George Szeber • A Warner Bros. First National Film

Items of Interest to WOMEN

THIS WEEK AT YOUR LIBRARY
HOURS:
Wednesday—11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.—3:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m.
Saturday—2:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m.

A Smattering of Ignorance, by Oscar Levant. The musical expert of "Information Please" writes amusingly about his career, his friends, and some of the principal figures in the world of music today. There is a chapter on what Levant's members themselves think of such famous conductors as Toscanini, Stokowski, and Koussevitzky; a witty account of life in Hollywood; and interesting side-glances on such widely different celebrities as Mischa Elman and Harpo Marx. Levant's observations on music scattered through the book, though plainly those of an expert, contain much of value for the ordinary reader.

Castle Skull, by John Dickson Carr. A real thriller, with a castle on the Rhine shaped like a skull, a burning corpse seen high on the battlements, an eerie magician's strange death, secret passages, and the shadow of a man with a torch all playing a part in Myron Allison's murder. Two famous rivals race each other to the solution of Castle Skull's secret—Baron von Arnheim, ace of the Berlin police, and Vercolin, foremost French detective.

Since Yesterday, by Frederick Lewis Allen. The author's "Only Yesterday" gave us a complete picture of the United States during the 1920's and now in "Since Yesterday" he continues his up-to-date history from the height of the Twenties years to the gathering war clouds after Munich. All the big events are described: the Depression, Roosevelt's first and second terms, the Lindbergh kidnap case, the sit-down strikes, but mingled with them, and lending color to the whole book, are little details of the changing whims and fashions of our national life—the books and movies popular in certain years, songs that swept the country, miniature golf, Benay Goodman and Sally Rand, and hundreds of other momentary interests now forgotten.

One Foot in Heaven, by Hartzell Spence. We've had the country doctor, the country schoolmarm, the village lawyer, and now their ranks are joined by the smalltown parson. Hartzell Spence writes an entertaining memoir of his father, the Methodist minister in different towns of the Middle West. He gives a life-like picture of the Reverend Spence's troubles with the Ladies' Aid, his gaffe in getting a $25,000 carillon as a gift for the church from one of its richest and crankiest members, his conquering of racial animosity in one community. The author also describes feistily the disadvantages of being a minister's son, and hence automatically a model of behavior for other boys.

THE GARDEN PATH
Mrs. Clarence Johnson, president of the Farmington branch of the Women's National Farm & Garden Association has suggested that this week's column be devoted to the tent-caterpillar, with suggestions for different methods of combating it, so that members and friends of the Garden Club will be prepared to deal with this prevalent pest next year.

The tent-caterpillar has been particularly bad around Farmington this year, with few gardens or orchards free from the ugly tent-like nests. Spring is the time when the caterpillars do their damage, often completely defoliating unsprayed orchards, ornamental trees, and shrubs.

In winter, during the egg stage of these insects, masses of the gray or dark brown eggs about half an inch long can be seen circling small twigs, as though a piece of gum had been wrapped around them. The egg masses are protected with a shiny waterproof substance like varnish. The tiny worms which hatch from these eggs feed on the young leaves as they unfold, and it is during this feeding period that they build the unsightly web-like nests in a convenient fork or branch of the tree for protection at night and during weather.

In about a month the caterpillars are full grown, about two inch-

SOMETHING NEW IN BARBECUE

(From Pete Smith film, "Barbecues")
With barbecuing rapidly gaining in popularity throughout the country, Max O. Cullen, meat specialist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, shows how one hamburger can satisfy various tastes. Instead of fattening hamburgers, put them into balls, and barbecue slowly. Sliced into three portions (first), it provides two well-done pieces and one rare.

es long, black in color with bluish markings and a white stripe down the back. They then leave the nests to seek sheltered spots under the bark of trees, on shingles, or any sort of trash, where they spin their dusty, dirty-white cocoons. The moth that emerges from this cocoon in early summer is small and heavy bodied, with reddish-brown, white braided wings. There is only one brood of tent-caterpillars a year, similar "tenets" seen in mid-summer or later being built by the fall web-worm.

The best method of controlling tent-caterpillars is by pruning off and burning the twigs carrying the egg masses. This can be done any time while the leaves are on the trees and the eggs clearly visible against the sky. Nests already formed can be removed by wiping them out of the tree crotches with rags moistened in kerosene, gasoline, or some full strength contact spray. The sooner this is done, the easier, pleasanter, and more effective it is. The tents can also be destroyed by burning with a torch, though great care must be taken not to injure the tree.

In orchards a regular spray program will control the tent-caterpillar. A good spray for this purpose is the pink bud spray, to be used when the fruit buds show color. Its ingredients are one quart of lime sulphur to one and a third cups of powdered lead arsenate.

In time the birds and other insects which feed on tent-caterpillars will restore a natural balance, so that after the caterpillars have been abundant in a locality for four or five years they usually disappear for the same length of time.

A WORD TO THE WIVES

Since you spend many of your waking hours in the kitchen preparing meals, washing dishes, and doing various other chores, why not make it a gay and attractive "happy" room? You can, without much expense.

A coat of paint to brighten the walls and woodwork is the first job; use a light neutral shade of ivory or cream for the walls, and for the woodwork a more delicate color, like blue, green, or red.

Kitchen curtains in a figured washable material, the background matching the woodwork, can be easily made at home. Buy a little extra material and edge the kitchen shelves with ruffled strips.

For left-overs in the ice box you can create a set of different sized glass jars at little trouble. Use empty jars of mayonnaise, peanut butter, jam, etc. (many of them are made expressly for this purpose) and enamel the tops the prevailing color of the kitchen. For an added touch, paint your monogram in a contrasting color on the center of the lid, after the enamel is dry. Then just to make sure none of the paint is wasted, enamel one of those small metal desk files, add your monogram, and keep it often, and these cod fish balls with tomato sauce have a flavor you will enjoy.

- Codfish Balls with Tomato Sauce
- 1 can codfish flakes
- 3 medium potatoes
- 2 tsp butter
- ¼ cup scalded milk
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 eggs, beaten
- ½ lb American cheese cut in small pieces
- 1 can condensed tomato soup
- dash cayenne pepper
- small bunch chives, chopped
- Cook and mash potatoes, mix with codfish and butter, milk, salt, pepper, and eggs. Beat until light, fry by spoonfuls in deep fat until brown. Drain on paper toweling.
- For sauce, put cheese in soup on top of double boiler, add cayenne. Just before pouring sauce over codfish balls add chopped chives.

Canning Demonstration Held at Eller Home

Members of the Farmington Home Furnishings Group and their guests met last week at the home of Mrs. Irving Eller for an instructive canning demonstration given by Miss Emma Duford, Home Demonstration agent for Wayne County in connection with Michigan State College extension work. Miss Duford showed the proper method of canning green beans and strawberries.

Seven Tables Set For Maccabee Card Party

Seven tables of card games were formed at the potluck lunch and card party given by the Farmington Maccabees last Friday at the home of Mrs. Fred Becker. Mrs. Earl Grosvenor was awarded the first prize, while winners of the third prize were Helen MacDonald and Mrs. Nourhan. Mrs. Holmes won the door prize.

Evangelical Children Enjoy Picnic Sunday

On Sunday afternoon Mr. E. B. Tyler's Sunday school class of boys and Mrs. Barron's girls' class of the Evangelical Church enjoyed a picnic with their teachers at Dodge State Park on Cass Lake. Swimming and games made up the afternoon's program. Guests at the picnic were Mrs. Tyler, the Reverend and Mrs. Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Dunckel, Mr. and Mrs. George Gillemester, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Way.

Maccabee Picnic Will Be June 27

Farmington Tent Hive 1027 of the Maccabees will give a picnic at the athletic field behind the school on Saturday, June 27. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend. A potluck supper will be served at 5:30 p. m., and afterwards games will be played.

IT CAN MEAN A LOT

A photograph today means more than it ever did before. With families far apart a photo is a cherished possession. We specialize in quality...

SAN REMO STUDIOS
17190 Lahser Road
Redford
RE-7798

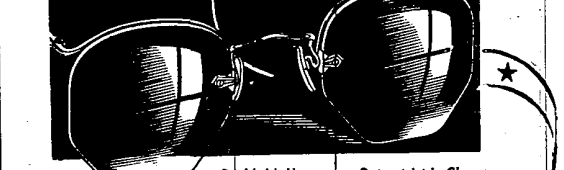

DON'T GUESS!
Know the Truth About Your Eyes

GET A TRUTHFUL EYE TEST PLUS

Precision
"PERSONALITY"
Glasses!

Don't wait until serious eye troubles impair both your sight and your general health. Our complete optical studios stand ready to serve you with a scientific examination and to prescribe correct glasses. Visit us today for that all important eye test... A few minutes now may save hours later.

M. M. Honeyman, Optometrist in Charge

DE ROY
JEWELERS - OPTICIANS
21648 GRAND RIVER AVE. Farmington
OPEN EVENINGS IN THE HEART OF REDFORD FREE PARKING IN REAR

Never An Increase or Carrying Charge

The Store of "Common-sense" Prices

USE OUR EASY WEEKLY PAYMENT PLAN