Major Cause of Death
A majority of deaths among horse and mule workstock can be attributed to improper feeding, poor management, and internal parasites. If the 85 per cent of the horses and mules infested with parasites were given medicinal treatment, good feeding and care would put them in condition for maximum efficiency.

Save Usable Parts

Farmers who are junking old machinery can save many parts which may be of use in the repair of operating machinery of their own or of a neighbor. Agricultural engineers report that new machinery will be hard to get.

Judging Distance

The ability to judge distances varies among drivers. It has an important bearing upon moving safely in traffic, especially on two-lane highways. Every driver should study and understand his visual limitations in judging distances.

NEW
NATURAL GAS
SERVICE

With the close of the year the natural gas installation was completed by the Consumers Power Company in some thirty-six communities in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties. It was a big job and we want to express our thanks for your fine cooperation. With the advent of the new gas, there may be some questions. Here are some that may have arisen, together with the answers.

1. Are we getting mixed gas or 100 percent Natural Gas?

ANS. It is 100 percent Natural Gas. Some of it comes from the gas fields of central Michigan, some from the Texas Panhandle. No manufactured gas whatever is being turned into the mains.

2. Is Natural Gas better than manufactured gas?

ANS. Natural Gas is better in this way: Since there is more heat in the same quantity of Natural Gas than in manufactured gas, you can boil a kettle of potatoes or heat a tankful of water with less gas than formerly and at less cost.

3. How does the cost compare?

ANS. Natural Gas costs less for the same amount of heat. A cubic foot of Natural Gas compares with a cubic foot of manufactured gas as a large Grade A egg compares with a bantam egg.

4. How much will my gas bill be reduced?

ANS. The saving to the average customer is estimated at 21 percent. But no customer is "average" and the saving will be smaller or larger in practically all cases, depending on the amount of gas used.

5. If Natural Gas gives the customer better value for his money, doesn't that mean the Company will receive less revenue?

ANS. That's right. But after the War the Company hopes to sell a great deal more gas than formerly, particularly for house heating. Natural Gas is the perfect fuel for house heating, and the cost is reasonable.

6. At present, can I change from some other fuel to gas for house heating?

ANS. Not now. War needs come first. Government limitations must be respected pertaining to house heating as well as to service for additional cooking or water heating customers.

7. With restrictions of that kind in effect, what good did it do, aside from a saving to your present customers, to bring Natural Gas to this area?

ANS. It gave our war production industries the benefit of a superior fuel for processing. And it puts the some 36 communities in a better position to meet peace time demands after the War.

Your cooperation in conserving natural gas will help keep the supply ample for war needs. Use the gas you need, but don't waste it.
