

Easy to Cook

It's easy to cook carrots, because the color stays bright without any special care on your part, and the vitamin A value remains intact at ordinary cooking temperatures. Cook carrots in as little water as possible and serve this liquid with the cooked carrots.

PHONE 4

"No, this is not O'Tool's Garage!"

POOR LIDY! This morning she got a call for Ben's Men's Haberdashery. And yesterday one for Larry's Bowling Alley. Judging from the piece of her mind she gave the last caller, her peace of mind is definitely disturbed. Unfortunately, mix-ups like these are bound to occur when people trust to memory in calling telephone numbers. Even more unfortunately, a wrong number means an extra call on the already overburdened telephone system to correct the mistake. You will get fewer wrong numbers—and every one will benefit—if you will follow these practices:

- 1 If you are not absolutely sure of a number, check it in your telephone directory.
- 2 If you compile and use your own telephone list, go over it once in a while and eliminate obsolete numbers... write in the correct ones.

No Safe for Seed
Diseased plants are not a safe source of seed. Beans for seed should be picked only from healthy plants. Pods should show no spots or blemishes, and the beans also should be clear of defects. One bean seed infected with anthracnose or blight could produce a diseased plant that would infect an entire planting and ruin the crop.

Stretching the Meat
Neatest, and tastiest, trick of the west is to add well-seasoned chopped meat to a milk sauce and serve, shortcake style, over hot biscuits. The only trouble is that the family will be sure to clamor for more!

Cooking Cabbage
When you cook cabbage, use a small amount of water—about two cups to a quart of the shredded vegetable—and cook until barely tender. In order to conserve as much of the vitamin C as possible, cook the cabbage covered.

Intelligent Self-Aid Key to Protection From Germs

Immediate and intelligent self aid by all members of the civilian population is the key to successful resistance in a gas attack.

Physicians are not expected to treat people exposed to gas unless they are also injured. More than 30 per cent of the people caught in a gas attack must treat themselves by the most simple measures. The first and most important thing to remember is to stay calm. Second, get inside the nearest house and seal it as thoroughly as possible, stuffing chimneys and ventilators; closing shuttered doors & windows with cardboard or wet blankets. Once inside, go to the upper floor and stay quiet.

Anyone who has been gassed should remove his shoes and outer clothing before entering the house and then take a shower using plenty of soap and warm water. If the eyes have received any splashes they should be washed with weak soda solution or water; if any liquid gas has splashed the skin it should be blotted off and blanching solution applied. Most gas casualties need no further treatment, but if there is persistent cough after a few hours, or shortness of breath, or if there are general distasteful, a physician should be summoned.

Observe Precautions for Growth of House Plants

A few precautions must be followed if you wish success with house plants. Wash the leaves regularly to remove all dirt and dust that collects on them. This allows light and air to get to all the breathing pores in the leaves, so that they can perform their functions properly. A few plants, such as Saint-paulia and the primroses, have the downy fuzzy type of leaf that should not come in contact with water, and such leaves should be cleaned by brushing with a soft cloth of brush. Don't place plants in drafts. Don't overwater. On the other hand, don't allow to become excessively dry. Keep the air moist through vapor pans on radiators, moistened peat moss beneath the plants, or by setting pots on gravel-filled troughs that have an inch or two of water in them for evaporation, yet do not allow the pot to rest in water.

Extend Season

To extend the harvest season, part of the snap bean planting may be left to ripen, to provide dry beans for winter eating. Some families like to use ripe cucumbers for making pickles, after the fruits are too old for salad. If tomatoes are late, some of the green tomatoes can be fried, to provide fresh food while other tomatoes are ripening. To provide more variety for breakfast meals, some of the vegetables may be dried or salted instead of being canned in usual style. Corn, snap beans, cabbage, onions, and turnips are good salted; while corn and snap beans are good dried. The dried and salted vegetables have a different flavor from the canned product, and increase the number of winter dishes that can be served from garden foods.

Has Many Meanings

In the 16th century Croesus came into use to denote persons born in the West Indies of Spanish parents, as distinguished from immigrants direct from Spain, or natives.

The marked local variations in this country refer to French-speaking inhabitants of Louisiana who are of French and Spanish origin; in Mexico, to white persons of pure Spanish extraction and to Mexicans, to the offspring of a Russian father and an Eskimo mother. There is a rather widespread but completely erroneous belief that it means a mixture of mixed white and Negro blood.

It is derived from the French form of "circulo," a West Indian arrangement of the Spanish word "circulo," a diminutive of a word meaning "one born or reared."

Nicaraguan Economy

In Nicaragua, food supply is linked with production of rubber and mahogany. Nicaragua is the biggest producer of natural rubber in Central America. Upwards of 3,000 workers are collecting wild rubber. Most of this rubber and much of the mahogany comes from the low-lying jungle regions drained by the Coco river in the northeast. This area was devastated by hurricane in 1941 and further impoverished by a banana blight. Bananas growing in one of the chief groves of living for the Coco river country. For years the fruit used to be collected from the growers by a steamer, which often brought in supplies. With the outbreak of war, the steamer or suspended service.

New Rotenone Uses

New uses are being developed for rotenone, the highly efficient insecticide that American farmers have found so helpful in increasing their production of food. Research is in progress to establish rotenone in the field of medicine. Used in skin lotions, it has revealed potentialities in combating infectious skin diseases. Today, our armed forces and those of the British are putting further experiments with the use of rotenone for this purpose. On the whole their findings are encouraging.

THE FORGOTTEN LIGHT

There it shines, a forgotten porch light burning all night long at someone's door. In normal times your porch light is a real convenience: It helps callers find your house number, it discourages prowlers, and it reduces accidents from falls on dark steps. The cost is only two or three cents a week—for electricity is cheap.

Today our country is at war... and that light burning needlessly is a serious matter, especially when it burns all night. It uses vital coal and manpower and transportation. And today our Government is asking for the most careful saving of these critical resources. It is asking you to save VOLUNTARILY.

Remember that electricity is a WAR MATERIAL, even though it is cheap and unrationed. There is no shortage of facilities for making electricity. But thousands of tons of coal per day are required for its manufacture in Edison power plants. Use it as carefully as you would rubber or gasoline or other critical resources. Power saved at home means more power for the fighting fronts. The Detroit Edison Company.
