Home-Issued to G. I.'s

If your favorite G. I. is not over seas this Thanksgiving, you have ample time to share some of your Thanksgiving with him by sending along a few homemade goodies. No matter how small the package, it will remind him of home and let him know you are thinking of him. Include a batch of Mocha Fudge. It has the delicious and irresistible flavor that only the combination of coffee and a bit of chocolate can give. Everybody loves that wonderful coffee taste... men especially. Coffee and chocolate blend deliciously in this mouth-watering Mocha Fudge. Make enough to allow for "tasting" by the home front as well as your boy at camp. The recipe is particularly timely because it requires only a tablespoon of shorten-

YOUR KIDS AND MINE — Joe E. Brown. Out of 15,000 fronts on and over all the battle fronts of the world, top-notch comedian Joe E. Brown has written a surprising account not of the horrors of war but of our boys in the Aleutians, New Guinea, China, and Italy.

Wherever he has traveled—and there are few places where he hasn't traveled—his own enormous heart has won the hearts of our boys and mine. After his own son, Don, was killed he set out to entertain other people's boys wherever he found them. And he came back with hundreds of their letters—human, simple, touching—which are all in this book.

Here is a man who did six shows a day, who flew on five bombing missions. His writing is warm, sincere, inspiring. You'll be proud of these American boys and of a famous trouper who gave everything to make them happy for a few moments. No observer in this war has known our boys so well or has seen them under such varying conditions. This is their story.

PASTORAL — Nevil Shute. Peter Marshall was a bomber pilot and Gervase Robertson a WAAF on his station. With complete youthful abandon, Peter fell head over heels in love with Gervase—and she with him. But Gervase hesitated. In these precarious days it was hard to distinguish between shadow and substance... Peter's urgent, impetuous courtship and Gervase's honest delight in his company filled the precious hours when, off duty, they could be together. And their work, full of danger and the stark realism of war, gave every moment a special significance.

It is the oldest story in the world—told with such freshness that it will recapture for its readers the high heart of youth. "Pastoral" is a happy book, filled with glow and discovery of young love, which can never be extinguished even by war. Against the background of the lovely English countryside, we meet the men and women of the flying station, and the men of Peter's crew, bound together by the intimacy and mutual trust of their fifty-eight missions over enemy territory. Vivid war writing is here, and spontaneous chuckling humor as well. And, of course, this being Nevil Shute's book, the flying scenes are magnificent.

If you're waiting for a home telephone

... you naturally want to know how soon we can fill your order.

We wish we could tell you but the fact is that it depends on these two things:

- 1 The extent to which present subscribers may decide to give up service, thus releasing central office equipment instruments, outside wires, etc.
- 2 The extent to which manufacturing facilities and manpower, new and released equipment, are made available after the needs of war are met.

Meantime, we promise you this: Your application will not be forgotten and it will be filled in the proper turn.
