Let's Be Practical

It is an obvious fact, but it will bear repeating again and again and again — American business is just as interested in the better world after peace comes as anyone.

Businessmen want no ceiling on jobs, no ceiling on national income, no ceiling on the standard of living — this is not a ceiling country, by the way; we've always been a people resentful of being fenced in.

But businessmen are practical — even if that quality does seem a bit out of style! They know — and the rest of us may very well accept their gospel — that the standard of living in the postwar world is going to depend on being able to divide income into the maximum number of things — goods and services.

Every extra cost that does not result in better production subtracts from the chance of a better living for the American people. And that's a thought which should be pasted in every Congressional hat!

The Face On The Stamp

Those quaint and interesting Government bureaus at Washington are always pulling pleasant little surprises on us taxpayers. Sometimes they're entertaining, sometimes not. The latest is Daniel Manning.

The first question you'll naturally ask is, "Who in the heliocentric universe is Daniel Manning?" Well, he's the fellow whose picture is on the Federal auto tax stamp you so unwillingly laid out $5.00 for at the post office around July 1. Well, even so, that doesn't tell who he is; so you have to look him up. Thus, children, we find that our Uncle Sam has our best interests at heart, for he wants us to know things.

Well, Daniel Manning is, or was, a really, truly, Horatio Alger hero, a newspaper office boy who rose to become that newspaper's proprietor. The paper was the Albany Atlas, later the Argus. "Mr. Manning," says one of his biographers, "studied politics as a fine art." Anyway, he fought the Tweed ring and was the right-hand man of Samuel J. Tilden, whom he helped elect Governor of New York and President of the United States — only he never got to the White House. That, children, is another story.

And why is this great and good Democrat's picture on the pretty green stamp? Well, Mr. Manning helped another New Yorker run for President, and this time he really got there. President Cleveland made the Albany editor his first Secretary of the Treasury. The Treasury gets the money for the stamp; so it has the say as to whose picture shall adorn it. So, children, we learn history at a cost of only $5.00.

Painting New Wallboard

Wallboard makes an excellent surface for painting. If not already sanded, treat it with a good interior spar varnish thinned with turpentine to about the consistency of linseed oil. If you add to the varnish a small quantity of the paint that is to be used as the finish coat, just enough to color it, the size coat will often answer the purpose of a priming coat. The wallboard can then be finished with two or three coats of any wall paint.

Rural Schools

Twelve million American school children, or 30 per cent of the total school population, attend rural schools, but only 38 per cent of the available funds for support of schools goes to rural areas.

Storing Fats

Store fats cold, tightly covered in dark place. Save all drippings and fat cut from meat. Render cuttings of fat by heating slowly to separate fat from connective tissue, strain through a clean cloth, cool. Store like other fats.

Summer Comfort

Clothing specialists of the USDA recommend considering coolness, as well as washability, before buying or making clothes for summer wear. Easy-drying styles are coolest. Short, moderately wide sleeves are more comfortable in summer than three-quarter length or long sleeves. Collared necklines are coolest. Fabrics slightly stiff, so they will stand away from the body, are much cooler than fabrics that cling.

BITS OF THIS AND THAT

By ELMER T. POCKINGTON

A PRAYER

Give me Oh Lord, the power to see
The good where ever it may be,
I'd not be blind to other's flaws
But still I hope that just because
Some weakness may be plainly seen,
I shall not hold it up between
The man by whom it is possessed
And me, — no I would see the rest, —
Find virtues that will make me think
The flaw that looked as black as ink
Was, after all, but small beside
The faults I know in me reside.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
New High School Auditorium
Farmington

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 29.
The Golden Text (Psalm 98:14) is: "O Lord God of hosts, who is a strong Lord like unto thee?" Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 119:151, 160): "Thou art near, O Lord; and all thy commandments are truth. The word is true from the beginning; and every one of thy righteous judgments endureth for ever."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (272): "The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before Truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving and meek."

Try Impeached
An impeachment is an accusation only and does not mean that the person necessarily is guilty. The trial follows. An official of the government may be impeached and removed from office. He was impeached in 1868 for violating the tenure of office act, for corrupt use of the veto power, interference with elections, and other high crimes and misdemeanors. Nineteen senators declared for his acquittal and 35 voted him guilty. As the votes lacked one of the two-thirds required to convict him he was acquitted.

Cuts Milk Output
Shortage of vitamin D in dairy cattle results in lower milk production, stiffness, and may be a cause of milk fever. In any young growing animal it appears as enlarged joints, particularly knee and hock, crooked legs, poor appetite, and thinness. In brood sows it usually results in paralysis of the hind quarters. The sow usually dies of this, but if the pigs are born they ordinarily are dead or weak, and the sow produces little or no milk. Direct sunshine supplies vitamin D.

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO (July 30, 1920)
Meat Market Catches Fire

The new fire apparatus proved its worth last Thursday night when the rear of H. A. Schroeder's meat market was discovered about to burst into flames. The fire was discovered by Howard Lord, and his mother, Mrs. W. E. Lord, and two fellows who were motoring through town. The market was pretty well damaged in the rear, while the A. & P. Store suffered a slight scorching and a portion of the stock destroyed by smoke and water. The damage is estimated at about a thousand dollars.

Home Coming Is Assured

Farmington is to have a home coming on Saturday, September 4. A strong and representative committee has been formed to carry out the program. Preliminary plans now under way indicate that the event will be of extensive proportions. A large sum of money is being raised for the purpose of putting over an attractive program. The tentative program calls for a full day of interesting things.

TEN YEARS AGO (August 8, 1935)
Threats To Shut Off Water Bring Payments

Threats to discontinue service in an effective method of collecting past due water bills as illustrated by the fact that only $1100 remains to be collected out of approximately $1500 in delinquent accounts.

Stockholders Offer To Buy Bank Assets

Granted a 14 day stay by Judge Glenn C. Gillespie at Oakland County Circuit Court, depositors of the Peoples Bank of Walled Lake, who protested at a hearing Thursday against sale of all remaining assets of the bank to a group of stockholders for $25,000 until next Thursday to either make a larger offer or take an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Commission Defers Work On Sidewalks

Property owners still have the opportunity to take advantage of the City Commission's resolution to the effect that the City will pay part of the costs of repairs made on private sidewalks, according to a decision made at the regular meeting of the commissioners held Monday night.

FIVE YEARS AGO (July 25, 1940)
Work Progresses On New Theater

Work on the interior of the new Civic Theater building has been going ahead rapidly during the past few weeks and it is hoped to have the movie house open by Labor Day. Progress on the building has been interrupted several times since it was started early this year, once by a change in architectural design and again by the necessity of digging a new and larger water well.

City Tax Collections Ahead Of '39

Nearly a third of the city taxes have been collected in the first four weeks since the statements were sent out, according to figures issued from the office of City Treasurer George Gildemeister, by Mrs. Avis Jamison, assistant treasurer.

Four Traffic Mishaps Occur

Four minor accidents which occurred near Farmington during the past week end resulted in injury to two persons and damage to several cars involved. Also reported was the recovery of a car which had been stolen at Garden City.

the Michigan Republican party which was seeking a leader to vanquish the VanWagoner regime. Result: Kelly was "drafted" to oppose Van Wagoner, and Homer Ferguson became the Republican nominee to battle Brown. At the November election, 1942, Kelly's plurality was 72,021; Ferguson's plurality was 28,057.

The second possible opportunity for Kelly to serve in the U.S. Senate would be 1946 when the term of Vandenberg would terminate.

One year ago the former Grand Rapids newspaper editor was confronted with the necessity of making an important decision. Should he straddle the fence on the issue of American participation in post-war security? Should he oppose such action? Should he advocate our membership in a world league whereby American troops might be dispatched abroad, at the call of the President, to dispel aggression at its beginning?

In 1941 Kelly was concluding his second term as secretary of state at Lansing. Prentiss M. Brown was finishing an elective term in the United States senate at Washington. A strong figure and an accepted leader of the Roosevelt administration, Brown had piloted the controversial price control bill through Congress and in so doing had prompted him to vote against the administration on several occasions. He was a formidable opponent.

Kelly wanted to become a candidate for the Senate. But he had not reckoned with
