Spanish Tradition

One of the great Spanish traditions that is still followed in certain regions of the western hemisphere is that of bullfighting. However, while some of the Latin American countries are as ardent fans of the sport as their forebears, to other nations of the New World bullfighting is as unknown—and in fact as alarming a spectacle—as it is to the citizens of the United States. It is probably because Mexico and Lima were two of the richest and most important cities of the Americas and both of them seats of viceroys that, ever since the early days of the colony, bulls were fought there, Spanish-style, for the amusement of the viceroys, nobles and the general public. As the enthusiasm of the population for this type of sport increased with the years, it became, without losing its Spanish flavor, part of the national life of Mexico and Peru as well as that of Venezuela and Colombia. While today there remain in Latin America only a half dozen countries where this diversion is allowed, the land of the Aztec and that of the Inca still are, after Spain, the principal strongholds and centers of bullfighting in the world, with Colombia and Venezuela as close seconds. In a few other Latin American countries bulls are played with but never killed.

Hoover's Salary

Herbert Hoover accepted the President's salary but on July 15, 1932, he cut his salary 20 per cent, reducing his pay from $73,000 to $58,000. The Constitution of the United States provides that the President's salary shall "neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall be elected." President Hoover had to effect the cut by voluntarily returning part of his pay to the treasury. The money was impounded in the treasury.

School Days Are Here Again

By Courtesy of SMITH-BRADLEY DRUG CO.

Your child will respond to the school bell this fall with bounding vitality or lagging steps — depending upon his health.

And that depends upon you. It is your duty as a parent to establish your child's contact with a physician. Only by so doing can there be any certainty that your child is well, and therefore able to cope mentally and physically with school demands and discipline. Physical fitness is reflected in report cards. Assure this fitness in your child by a visit to the doctor.

If a prescription is needed, patronize a reliable drugist.
