

Use Leftovers

Make good use of leftovers—grate hardened cheese and use in cooking cheese dishes; simmer chicken or meat bones or chicken feet to make broth; use stale bread for french toast or cube and make croutons.

Milk Lure

If Junior is on a milk strike, try one or two tablespoons of molasses in his next glass of milk.

Store Ornaments

On a handy shelf, homemakers can keep small boxes for little table ornaments, candles and decorations for special party occasions. Each box is labeled according to its contents.

Potato Seed

In cutting potato seed for planting, the most important requirement is to have one good eye on each seed piece.

BRITISH YOUNGSTERS RETURNING HOME

NEW YORK — Soundphoto — Among 69 British youngsters who left hand of their adoption last week after five years, was this group shown waving from ramp of the Nieu Amsterdam. Most of the children were under 10 years of age when they left their war-torn homes in Britain to take refuge in safety of this country. The majority were determined some day to return.

NEW KITCHEN SERVES TWO PURPOSES

Is the rocking chair on its way back to the kitchen? Architects, decorators and home-makers agree that the kitchen of the future must combine comfort with utility, and one designer suggests a dual purpose room as cozy as that illustrated above. This is an idea to ponder for the "dream" home, and is particularly adaptable to a large kitchen which is to be remodeled. Here, a pair of chests separates the modern streamline kitchen with its white enamel gas range, refrigerator, sink and storage cabinets from the dining portion with an inviting fireplace, early American furnishings and bright plants at the windows.

RECONVERSION IN THE MAKING

Planes Carry Vital War Cargo to U. S.

The United States used airplanes to bring 1,134,000 pounds of strategic war materials into this country last year, an increase of 166,000 pounds over air cargo imports of similar materials in 1943.

Beryl, mica, and tantalite came from South American countries; mica and stellite from India, nickel oxide from Cuba, tantalite from Africa and Australia, and antimonial materials from Central and South American countries.

All these materials are vital to war industries. Beryl is a hardening, alloying agent for copper. Stellite is used in electrical communication equipment. Tantalite is used in radio and radar tubes, as an oxide in metal-cutting tools and surgical instruments, and as a catalyst in production of synthetic rubber.

Ninety per cent of all the plane cargoes were landed at Miami, Fla. The United States army air transport command carried 57 per cent of all strategic air cargoes certified by the War Production board, moving in world routes during the last year. The China National Aviation corporation carried nearly 33 per cent, the United States naval air transport service 4.5 per cent, and the remainder was divided among seven American and foreign air lines.

Varying Colors Produce Effects of Human Moods

Specialists say the following effects of color on human moods are considered an average:

Red: A stimulating color which excites and increases the working power of the brain. Too stimulating if used alone.

Yellow: A stimulating color which helps energize the brain, in color therapy it aids in treating colds, paralysis and chronic conditions.

Green: Not necessarily depressing; possesses cooling effects, useful in the abatement of excitement. Counteracts brightness of sunlight.

Black: Useful for toning strong colors, not actually depressing. Best used in combinations.

White: Cheerful, attracts sunlight; but alone is cold. Stimulating if used with red, yellow or orange.

Brown: Restful and warming; depressing if used alone. Best effects are noticeable when combined with orange, yellow and gold.

Cloth Damage Clues
Breaks that appear in rayon cloths after laundering may be the result of too strenuous twisting and wringing. Gentle squeezing is recommended because rayon is weak when wet. Fold all buttons, buckles and zippers inside cloth before running garment through the wringer. Small cuts appearing in bathroom towels may be traced to the man who wipes his razor on any towel that is handy.

When dish towels are scorched, days of usefulness are soon over. If curtains from south windows come back from the cleaner "in pieces" and those from north windows return in good condition, suspect the sun rather than the cleaner. Long exposure to sunlight has a rotting effect on fabric which often does not show up until the fabric is washed or cleaned. Pillow slips that wear out before their time may have been doing double duty as laundry bags. The extra wear from dragging and pulling, and the more strenuous washing because of extra soil takes its toll of the fabric.

Examine Garments
Before working over cotton, rayon or silk, examine the goods for broken places. Then hold it between the hands and give it two or three gentle jerks. If it gives way anywhere—or even shows signs of breaking—it may be better turned in for salvage than used for clothes.

Hold old wool garments up to the light to get an idea of where and how much they are worn. Avoid very thin spots in cutting out garments, or at least place them where they will get very little further wear or strain. Give special attention to any faded places, for long exposure to sunlight may have weakened as well as faded the fabric.

Water—A Farm 'First'
A "farm first" for health and convenience is an adequate supply of fresh, pure water under pressure and a sanitary sewage disposal system. Water can be supplied under pressure by an automatic electric pump and elevated tank or a hydro-pneumatic tank with windmill or gasoline engine. Running water to the home and to livestock is one of the greatest labor-saving devices which can be added to the farm. A septic tank of adequate size and proper design is a time proven solution to the farm sewage disposal problem.

Coccidiosis Control
Outbreaks of coccidiosis of chickens can be controlled by use of dried milk products or of molasses if the treatment is given early enough. The first symptoms of coccidiosis are loss of appetite and inclination of the bird to stand with its legs apart. Four parts of dried milk can be mixed with six parts of mash for two days, or one pint of molasses can be placed in five gallons of the only accessible drinking water for half day.

Forty and over does not spell youth, but it may indicate greater wisdom than that of the twenty and over age bracket. Often maturity brings deeper understanding and calmer judgement, in how to live.

This is why so many people who are passing through their fourth decade give thought and attention to their health, and provide for a hale old age in sensible ways.

This provision is most adequately made when one consults the doctor regularly and follows his advice to the letter.

Medication is not always indicated but when it is, be sure that it is the best obtainable. Select a good druggist.
