How To Solve Bathroom Tie-Ups

Compartmentize your bathroom and make morning traffic problems a thing of the past. That's the advice of people who have completed a modernization project and are enjoying the convenience of a bathroom divided into sections by natural layout, sliding doors, or dividers of one sort or another.

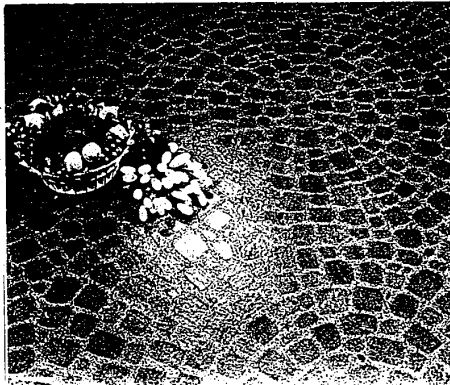

By providing separate areas for the tub-shower, toilet and lavatory wash bowls, more than one person can use the bathroom at one time. This is especially important in the morning, of course, in families with children of school age.

After drawing up a workable plan to compartmentize the bathroom with your building material dealer, he bold and indulges your secret desire for a colorful decor.

A practical paneling for bathrooms because of its resistance to heat and moisture is Marlite, which comes in a wide selection of modern colors, interesting woodgrains and heraldic patterns. Included are several eye-catching textured panels.

Marlite has a durable plastic surface, which resembles that on a refrigerator, and it is just as easy to clean. A damp-wiping will remove dirt and stains. The prefinished paneling never requires painting or refinishing.

STREETS OF VENICE inspire new floor effect. A new floor design reminiscent of the textured cobblestones of Venice's San Marco Square, is created in this patterned inlaid sheet vinyl floor appropriately called "San Marco." The Armstrong vinyl floor is available in five colors and is manufactured in six-foot widths.

Built-In Expands Dining Area

When the family is growing or guests are gathering, the dining area may require updating to handle expanded needs. A popular innovation is a wall-length, built-in buffet-storage cabinet.

Consolidating the serving and storage units opens floor space for extra seating, provides room for more linens, china, silver and serving pieces, and its counter top makes serving a large group relatively simple.

Built of smooth, close-grained western wood that easily takes any paint or stain, it may be finished to complement any decorating scheme.

Shelves added to the wall above display family treasures or collections for a warm, intimate accent to food and conversation.

Licenses Required To Sell 'Restricted Use' Pesticides

Applications for licensing examinations for dealers wishing to qualify to sell "restricted use" pesticides are now being accepted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, according to B. Dale Ball, director.

Application forms should be requested through the MDA Plant Industry division, Lewis Cass building, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

The "restricted use" pesticide law, which became effective starting in 1972, requires any dealer handling such products to obtain a state license to be issued only after he has demonstrated, through written examination, his knowledge of the law and rules governing the sale of pesticides.

Products covered are those formulations determined after a public hearing to be serious hazards to man, warm-blooded animals and to the environment when applied under normal accepted conditions of use.

"AS ESTABLISHED in MDA Regulation No. 633," said Ball, "the person in charge of each sales location or outlet must obtain a license. It should be understood this applies only to those dealers who are interested in handling 'restricted use' pesticides.

"Out of an estimated 12,000 pesticide dealers," Ball continued, "we think only 200 to 400 will apply and qualify for the license to handle restricted use materials."

Complete instructions will be included with the application form. Copies of Michigan's Economic Poisons law and Regulation No. 633 are available from the department.

Written tests will be given at each of the six regional MDA offices. License fee for "restricted use" pesticide dealers is $30.

'Mod 24' Changeover Expected

Comparative test houses have proved that 24-inch spacing for studs, joists and rafters, instead of the traditional 16 inches, can save more than $200 on a two-story, 2,100 - square - foot home.

The NAHB Research Institute conducted a time and materials study on two houses, identical except for the spacing of framing, in an Oakland, Calif., subdivision, and completed its report in January.

Western wood wall and floor framing, installed with plywood, saved nearly $319 favoring 24 - inch spacing, including $164.25 on framing and $54.50 for reduced drywall and electrical work.

Lumber savings were substantial, but reduction in work time was even greater. Framing time was trimmed by more than 19 man - hours, or about 15 per cent, the home builder institute found.

The stage is well set for builder changeover to 24 - inch spacing; its elements are accepted by the major building codes and a growing list of local codes. The lumber industry is promoting the new "Mod 24" system with code enforcers and builders.
