Sometimes a long-term patient and his family feel that the selection of a long-term nursing facility is a permanent choice. Not so! There are more than 500 such nursing facilities in Michigan which are competing for business. Some are private (profit and non-profit), some are operated by units of government. If the patient or his family feel that care is not up to par, they should be aware that they are free to select another nursing facility. Competition for patients keeps all facilities on their toes in providing meals, service and nursing care.

Farmington Socially Speaking

By KATHY ZISKA GR. 4-7261

St. Fabian Women's Council will have as its guest speaker on March 13 Mrs. Edith Grow of Highmeadow Elementary School, a psychologist who has worked with the public school system as a psychologist for 10 years. The speaker will answer questions from the floor on any subject as time permits.

MRS. BETTY MUNDY of Jacksonville Ave., is quite excited and says that she knows now what fathers-to-be go through in waiting rooms.

She was honored with being a grandmother for the first time on Valentine's Day when her daughter Mrs. Kathy Rodriguez of Opaoloka, Fla. sent that Monica Marie was born.

Kathy is a Farmington High School graduate. Mrs. Mundy is looking forward to the day she can see her first grandchild. Then on Feb. 29, Bonnie Marie arrived a couple of months prematurely to the proud parents, Mr. and Mrs.

John Graham of Gill Road. This is where Mrs. Mundy passed the floor while her daughter Sandra was scheduled to present her with her second grandchild.

THE BOARD of directors for the Farmington Community Center was recently entertained by Mrs. Harry Stultz in her home on Johnson Road in Independence Commons.

Maxine Carlson, Carol Kennedy, Joan LaVanway, Bernice Lentz, Anne Moseman, Hope Nahstoll, Ellen Shaloe and Margaret Schaeffer enjoyed lunch and admired the beautiful treasures Mrs. Annie Lurie Stultz has collected from her travels in all parts of the world.

About 75 Women of North Farmington traveled to the Fisher Theater to see the play "Promenade All."

Before the theater there were group lunch parties at some of the interesting restaurants in the area. Seen in the Steering Wheel Restaurant were Scottie

Bolin, Joan Robbins, June Kilmer, Joan Robin, Kay Werny, Mary Rarigh, Ann Hitchcock, Irene Gunsallus, Peg Wright, Monie Erickson, Bernice Peterson, Charlotte Wachser, Dagmar Thalner, Peg McQuillan, Beverly Bailey, Audrey Owen, Portia Glann, Helen Wielock, Irene Bjurstrom and Mary Bertsch. And enjoying their lunch in Al Green's Coach Stop were Elsie Petoskey, Beatrice Kuber, Marry Ellen Kelly, Genevieve Sawicki and Ruth Falahee.

Contestants Argue Case

A Farmington law student will be among the finalists competing in the 1972 Henry M. Campbell moot court competition March 9 at the University of Michigan (U-M) Law School.

John T. Meredith of Farmington, a second year law student, and three other second year students will argue a hypothetical legal case before five judges.

The competition is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. in room 100 of Hutbins Hall. The four finalists will receive cash prizes, and their names will be engraved on a plaque at the law school. Winners will be announced Thursday evening.

The students will argue to what extent an employer must accommodate the religious preferences of his employees under the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun will be one of the judges in the competition. Joining him will be Judge John Minor Wisdom, U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans; Judge Noel P. Fox, U.S. District Court for Western Michigan; Dean Theodore J. St. Antoine and Prof. Harry T. Edwards.

Adult Classes More Popular

FARMINGTON More adults in Farmington are filling the classrooms.

Enrollment in adult education classes of Farmington schools this year has increased 15 per cent over last year with 1,635 adults having enrolled in the first two terms of the evening courses.

National figures indicate increased enrollment in adult education courses from 8.3 million persons (7.8 per cent of the population beyond mandatory school age and not a regular student) in 1957 to 13.2 million (11 per cent of population) in 1969.

For some, it's determination to earn a college degree or the sheer joy of new knowledge that drives them back to the classroom. For others, it's the need to update outmoded skills or to acquire a marketable skill.

BUT BESIDE each individual reason are the needs of a changing world and more leisure time.

Increased interest and participation by the younger population has led to classes in gymnastics, electronics, pleasure boating, and hunter safety, reports Donald Howell, director of extension services for the district.

"Also, since activity and recreation classes show the most marked increases, the spring program will include a number of additional classes such as men's recreation, ladies' volleyball, family night, golf, and yoga," Howell said.

"The traditional enrichment classes seem to remain popular," Howell said. "However, there is less interest in foreign languages."

SPRING TERM classes of Farmington schools begin March 13 with registration underway.

Other new courses being offered include two classes resulting from recommendations from the Family Life Education Committee - "Nature of Prejudice," and "Parents Guide to Sex Education of Their Children."
