Pro-Bus Group Sets Meeting

The leader of Detroit's NAACP chapter, which began the lawsuit leading to the decision that Detroit schools are segregated, is scheduled to speak at a meeting in Livonia Thursday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m.

William Penn, executive secretary of the Detroit NAACP, will speak in Franklin High School at a rally sponsored by the Citizens for Suburban Responsibility. Franklin is at 3100 Joy Rd.

Also expected to appear is Marilyn Jean Kelly, a candidate for the Democratic party's nomination for U.S. Senator. She is a member of the State Board of Education.

Miss Kelly supports cross-district bussing, one of the possible results of the Detroit school desegregation case, and has attacked Attorney General Frank Kelley for his stand.

Both speakers will answer questions.

Real Estate Institutes Set At Oakland U

Accelerated programs in MREA's real estate institute I and II are scheduled for March 27-30 and March 20-23, respectively, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at Oakland University's division of continuing education.

The accelerated Institute I program allows real estate firms to enroll new sales personnel for timely intensive preparation for the state salesman license examination given in April. Institute II is for established sales personnel who wish to take the April brokers license examination.

Outstanding area real estate specialists selected by G. Gordon Walker, director of real estate education, will conduct the sessions on finance, appraising, management, legal aspects, investment, marketing and construction.

Advance phone registration is required for both Institutes.

Seminars Set For Small Businessmen

The U.S. Small Business Administration and the school of industrial management at Lawrence Institute of Technology will present a special evening program for owners and managers of small industrial firms.

The program consists of five consecutive Tuesday evening sessions beginning March 21 in Room 118 of the Library Group Building on the LIT campus in Southfield.

Program objectives include upgrading skills in the areas of business, management, finance, marketing, economic analysis and SBA assistance programs. A team of five different instructors includes representatives from government, industry, various universities and the field of management consulting.

Tuition for the program is $50 and reservations can be made by calling the school.

It Figures

From infancy to age 18, the USDA estimates it costs $8,300 to feed a boy, $8,300 to feed a girl at today's prices. This does not include snacks away from home or take into account rising food prices. Milk, with all its essential nutrients is still the best food buy at about 15 cents a pound.
