SPORT HIGHLIGHTS

(By Bill Conroy)

This week's news in the field of sports contains items regarding two sports which, although they are not as well known to Farmington people as others, are highly becoming top-notch entertainment in this area.

The first pertains to The Farmington Saddle Club, those organized horse lovers who in the past few months have done wonders to organize Farmington's first riding group.

At present, the Western class of this organization with their colorful bandanas and shies, their shining spurs, tan saloon hats and all that goes to make up the original American cowboy, are organizing the club's own horseback quadrille. This group of mounted square dancers will perform at each and every Saddle Club horse show and will provide the community with lots of western entertainment.

Many people have already witnessed the Sunday workouts at the club grounds on Grand River Cut-Off where the owners put their beautiful mounts through their paces each week. If you're not too busy some Sunday just drop around and watch this colorful sight and I'm sure you'll agree with me when I say horseback riding is rapidly becoming one of Farmington's highly rated sports.

Although for several years Farmington citizens have participated in the popular sport of bowling it has not been for many years that they have had alleys within the city. But last Saturday halted that when Deles Haman officially opened his new and modern Bowling Alley at Grand River and Brookside. Now all adventurous persons who seek a chance to kick over those persistent tenpins may do so without traveling any great distance. League bowling has not begun yet and until then each evening will be open for bowling.

In addition to their own passenger cars, farmers use 34 percent of the motor trucks now in service in the United States. Automobile Club of Michigan reports.

Service Notes

T/S Walter T. Schweizer Jr., 19, of Farmington, now on duty with Military Government in Korea, is assigned as a typist in the Bureau of Public Information.

Entering the Army in November, 1944, Sgt. Schweizer received six weeks basic training and 11 weeks specialized clerical training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

After leaving the States in May, 1946, he was assigned to the 148th Field Artillery Battalion, 40th Infantry Division, which saw action in the Philippines. Schweizer was a clerk typist in the payroll branch of the Unit Personnel Section. Last October he was transferred with the 148th to Korea and continued working with the Personnel Section while stationed in Chinshae. Later, when the division was sent to the States for deactivation, he was reassigned to the Military Government in Korea.

Schweizer has been awarded the Good Conduct Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon with one battle star, World War II Victory Ribbon and the Occupation Ribbon. Prior to his induction into the service, he attended Clarenceville High School.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Schweizer, live at 21429 Tule, Farmington.

ance in the performance of any duty imposed by this act." Each or neglect by a local official to cooperate with the state police in law enforcement would subject said officer, the legislature decreed to removal from office on grounds of "inefficiency."

Here is how the procedure actually works.

Not so many years ago vice and gambling conditions in Macomb County provoked citizens to file complaints direct with the governor's Lansing.

The Governor promptly summoned the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff. He notified them of the complaints. He instructed them to clean up Macomb County or else "drastic action" would be taken at once.

The inference was unmistakable. The Michigan State Police, responsible directly to the Governor by legislative decision would swing into action. Local officials would face the disgrace of removal from office.

What happened? Your guess is a good one. Laws were enforced.

The keynote to the relationship of the Michigan State Police to other law-enforcing agencies is one word - "cooperation."

A citizen's complaint is to be filed first with the local police authority. If the police chief if the violation occurred within the city, or the sheriff and the prosecuting attorney if the violation occurred beyond the city limits within the county.

Then if the violation continues, it is within the citizen's right to appeal direct to the Governor of Michigan who then can ask for an official investigation and report and finally instruct the State Police to enforce the law.

It is obvious that, in the above procedure, the power of the Governor is great. He is the key to good government.

One of the postwar plans of the Michigan State Police is a training school for municipal policemen and firemen. The school would be administered jointly by the department and Michigan State College, East Lansing. A six weeks course of intensive training would be given to rookie officers, and a certificate awarded to them at their graduation.

The state legislature has already appropriated funds for a radio engineering building and a quarter-master's building at state headquarters. Other needs include an identification building to house the existing files, a garage building and an electrical distribution center.

Commissioner Olander is enthusiastic about the program for training of policemen and firemen which he says has been endorsed by many police and fire chiefs. If it works well in Michigan, it might also in Japan.

General MacArthur, for one, is definitely interested in the Michigan State Police.
